McCloskey Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first formal House discussion of possible impeachment of President Nixon was halted on a technicality after only six minutes Wednesday night.

A speech on the subject by Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif., was stopped on demand of Rep. Earl F. Landgrebe, R-Ind., for a quorum that the House could not muster.

McCloskey said he believes "that time seems almost at hand" when the House must consider formal impeachment proceedings "unless the President makes a full and fair disclosure of everything he knows and when he learned it."

Landgrebe said he has no vendetta against McCloskey and represents no wing of the Republican party. But, he added:

"I don't think any member of Congress—Republican, Democrat or Socialist—should be on the floor talking about impeachment without a quorum present."

Even before Landgrebe's quorum call, it was clear that because the day's business had been completed, most House members had left.

McCloskey, in the prepared text of the speech which he did not complete, said Nixon's disclosure should deal with any White House knowledge of the Watergate case, including its coverup and the financing and tactics of his campaign organization.

It also should include, McCloskey said, "all actions of the executive branch relating to the prosecution of Daniel Ellsberg, and in particular the domestic security activities, legal and illegal, of the President's own special investigations unit."

5-Year Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate began voting Wednesday on a new five-year farm bill, including a long list of amendments ranging from tougher lids on subsidies to a redesigned conservation program.

Final action on the bill, titled the Agricultural and Consumer Protection Act of 1973, was not expected until later this week.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., gained approval of an amendment to set up a program to pay farmers for establishing vegetative cover on land taken from crop production.

Although tied to crop programs for wheat, cotton and feed grain through 1978, the Humphrey proposal was seen as a partial restoration of a conservation program called REAP.

The Nixon administration canceled REAP—the Rural Environmental Assistance Program—on grounds it was too costly and that it had outlived its usefulness.

Pending amendments include a number which would sharply reduce the current $55,000 per crop limit a single farmer can get in government payments.

One proposal getting quick

Hubert H. Humphrey

approval was introduced by Sen. James B. Pearson, R-Kan., calling for an annual review and report by the secretary of Agriculture of the status of the family farm and the development of large corporation-type units. Pearson said his amendment indicated the "express intent of Congress" that federal farm programs were intended to serve family farmers.

Indochina Strife

SAIGON (AP) — The pace of fighting quickened Wednesday in some regions of South Vietnam and Cambodia as the United States met with North Vietnam in Paris in an effort to halt the hostilities.

The Saigon command reported heavy fighting in the Mekong Delta for the third straight day and a new rash of attacks in the central coastal province of Quang Ngai.

In Cambodia, a large force of rebels swept down on Highway 4 near the farming village of Ang Snuol, 13 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, and occupied a three-mile segment of the road-way running from the capital to the sea. Hundreds of villagers fled to havens nearer Phnom Penh.

While President Nixon's special adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, conferred in Paris with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho, President Nguyen Van Thieu called a meeting in Saigon of the South Vietnamese National Security Council to assess the military and political situations.

White House Posts Filled Appoint Laird, Ziegler

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon named former Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird his counselor for domestic affairs Wednesday as he continued rebuilding the Watergate-riddled White House high command. Nixon also:

—Disclosed that Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. is retiring from the Army to become presidential assistant in charge of running the White House staff.

—Broadened the role of Ronald L. Ziegler, who will become a presidential assistant in charge of all White House communications while remaining as press secretary.

Laird in effect replaced John D. Ehrlichman, and Haig replaced H. R. Haldeman, the two top presidential assistants who resigned April 30 in the wake of the Watergate scandal.

Laird, a former nine-term congressman from Wisconsin, said he was coming out of retirement because "government in some quarters is at a standstill" as a result of Watergate.

"This cannot be allowed to continue," he told a news conference. "...It is absolutely essential that we get on about the business of government."

Several weeks ago Laird had told newsmen that if Nixon were involved in the Watergate scandal he would not want to know about it.

He told the news conference that these remain his personal views "because of my concern about the presidency." But he added, "I have been assured of his noninvolvement and I accept that."

Laird said the executive, legislative and judicial branches of the government are investigating the scandal as they should, and "the truth will be known and it should be known."

As counselor to the President, the White House said Laird "will be responsible for the over-all formulation and coordination of domestic policy." Laird, who was defense secretary in Nixon's first term, will again hold Cabinet rank and will sit on the National Security Council.

Laird said he will assume his new duties June 15 after an already-planned trip overseas and will give up his congressional pension.

Haig, who for a month has been acting as interim White House chief of staff, will retire from the Army Aug. 1 and will be responsible for "coordination and supervision of the day-to-day operations...of the White House staff."

During four years on Henry A. Kissinger's National Security Council, Haig rose rapidly from the rank of colonel and last January was promoted to four-star general and named deputy Army chief of staff, a post he will now give up.

Sloan Says He Tried To Warn Ehrlichman

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former campaign treasurer Hugh W. Sloan Jr. testified Wednesday he warned John D. Ehrlichman last July the entire Nixon re-election organization might be involved in the Watergate affair. He said the White House aide told him: "I don't want to know."

Sloan said also that Jeb Stuart Magruder told him he might have to commit perjury and that he told both presidential counsel John W. Dean III and Watergate prosecutors about it.

Sloan said he told Dean he felt so strongly "about what Magruder had forced on me in the way of a personal decision ... that if Magruder were ever presented before any Senate committee for confirmation to a high public office, I would go to that committee and testify against him."

Dean assured him that would never happen, said Sloan, who resigned as campaign treasurer because of the Watergate scandal.

Sloan's testimony before the Senate Watergate committee was televised. Late in the day special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox filed a memorandum in federal court asking that future potentially incriminating testimony be taken in closed session or at least without being broadcast.

Cox had failed in an attempt to persuade the committee to call off the hearings, expressing fears the wide exposure might impede investigation of the scandal and increase the risk that guilty parties will go free.

Sloan had given Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy $199,000 in campaign funds. After five men Liddy had recruited were arrested in the

Astronauts Stage Rehearsal Of Tricky Spacewalk Repair

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Skylab astronauts staged a rehearsal Wednesday of a tricky space walk salvage job which may save their troubled mission. At the same time, another battery weakened and intensified the power problem aboard the distressed space station.

"I'm not as optimistic as you are," said Skylab 1 commander Charles Conrad, the man with the toughest role in the two-man space-walking repair job. "But we'll give it a go."

Conrad and Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin worked with ropes, hooks and tools, practicing the techniques they will use Thursday in an attempt to cut or loosen an aluminum strap fouling a power panel wing on the side of their electricity-starved Skylab.

"We'll know better when we see it," said Kerwin during the rehearsal, "but our feeling is we've got about a 50-50 chance to pull it off."

Attached to a 60-foot lifeline which will supply oxygen and air to his spacesuit, Conrad will make his way along a make-shift handrail to the panel at the side of the workshop. The lifeline will be anchored to the hatch where Kerwin will monitor it.

The third Skylab crewman, Paul J. Weitz, will remain inside the space station during the walk.

Skylab lost another 80 to 100 watts from its already-short supply of electricity Wednesday when power from a battery system dropped by one-half to one-third. Two other battery systems failed earlier in the mission.

"Right now we have 16 of 18 batteries working, with the prospects of having only 15 of 18," said Flight Director Charles Lewis.

Skylab now has a maximum of only 4,100 watts of power, less than half its designed needs. Total loss of the battery would drop that to about 4,000 watts. The wing could add about 3,000 watts, enough to perform the full Skylab 1 experiment program.

The astronauts maintained a curtailed experiment schedule Wednesday.

Farmers, Officials Disagree On Effect Of Late Planting

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wet weather in the Midwest has delayed the planting of spring crops, but farmers and federal agriculture officials are at odds over whether the setbacks will mean higher prices for the consumer.

"If there is a shortage of feed supplies as a result of the wet spring, then there are definitely going to be higher prices," said Joseph Wankler, a dairy farmer from Plain, Wis.

But Francis A. Kutish of the U.S. Department of Agriculture said he stood by earlier, more optimistic predictions from his boss, Don Paarlberg, USDA director of economics.

Paarlberg said on May 20 that he was confident that the farmers could catch up with their spring planting and said the flooding would have little impact on food prices. He also said that much of the acreage inundated by Mississippi River flooding was cotton land and predicted farmers would switch to soybeans which can be planted later in the year and provide feed for livestock.

The Memorial Day weekend, however, brought tornadoes and torrential rains. More rain fell last weekend.

The Agriculture Department said that by June 3, about 84 per cent of the corn crop in the Corn Belt was planted, compared to 90 per cent at the same time last year. "Farmers have pretty well caught up in their corn planting," Kutish

Kissinger-Tho Talks Resumed

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger resumed his secret talks Wednesday with Hanoi Politburo member Le Duc Tho on how to halt continuing violations of the Vietnam cease-fire.

The negotiators met 5½ hours. It was their first meeting since May 23 when they interrupted six days of talks. The new encounter was marked by broad smiles and vigorous handshakes between the two sides.

The two delegations announced separately they will meet again Thursday morning.

Kissinger was accompanied for the first time by Ronald L. Ziegler, presidential press secretary, who made the routine announcement on behalf of the U.S. delegation but gave no other information on the meeting.

In Washington, President Nixon announced that Ziegler will be given the added title of assistant to the President and will have a role in White House policy making.

Tho's top aide at the talks, North Vietnamese Deputy Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach, said the two sides again reviewed "all the points of the Paris agreement." Asked whether there was a new agreement, Thach replied: "It is too early to answer that question."

Kissinger reported last month that he and Tho had made "significant progress" and had every intention of concluding the talks on implementing the cease-fire at one more session.

Obstacles to agreement include the massive reinforcement of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces in South Vietnam, American reconnaissance flights over the North, the Saigon government's denial of full diplomatic privileges to Viet Cong truce observers in government-controlled areas, and Nixon's decision to halt the removal of mines from North Vietnamese harbors and economic aid talks with Hanoi.

Moves Considered Against Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's administration flashed new signs Wednesday that measures to shore up its anti-inflation programs are under active and intensive consideration.

Melvin R. Laird, named as Nixon's new domestic policy adviser, disclosed the President will meet Thursday with Democratic and Republican members of Congress and then with his Cabinet.

Later, however, the White House said the meeting with congressmen had been called off.

Asked if Nixon would move soon to strengthen the fight against inflation, Laird said, "I will be making some recommendations" to the President on wage-price controls.

At another point during his White House news conference, the former Defense secretary said, "Those people that are making a grave error that I think they will live to regret."

Asked on what basis he made such a statement, Laird said "I think it will be based upon actions that the President of the United States will take on Capitol Hill."

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said he believes that selective wage-price controls are under consideration by the White House.

Sources said the President has put his anti-inflation program under another intensive review. But they reported that no decisions had been made.

Nixon met with his economic advisers Tuesday.

More Than Meets Eye In Gas Crisis

Suppose they cried "Wolf!" and nobody came?

It happened in the fable and it could happen for real if environmentalists and others whose business it is to alert us to the future don't learn to temper their alarms with common sense.

For instance, says Stewart L. Udall, the current shortage of gasoline is a national "nightmare."

"Rationing has already begun," says the former secretary of the Interior, who now runs his own environmental consulting firm in Bethesda, Md. "The whole cut-rate segment of the gasoline industry is being forced out of business. It may become a thing of the past before this year is out."

While there have been and are gasoline and other fuel pinches in parts of the country and may be worse ones to come, the latter statement will be news to thousands of independent stations who have been pumping the same volume throughout the "crisis" and at the same prices, despite irresponsible predictions by some people that gasoline will soon cost a dollar a gallon.

August is the month when the real gasoline crunch will be felt, says Udall, who then proceeds to give the very kind of advice that could precipitate that crunch and other kinds as well:

"My advice is for people to take their vacations before August and plan to stay closer to home."

Having had that last fling, Americans, he suggests, are going to have to change their life-style drastically from here on out, particularly with respect to automobiles.

It may well be that America's honeymoon with the internal combustion engine is nearing its end. Petroleum simply has too many valuable uses for so much of it to be burned up just in moving people around. Neither do we want to go completely into hock with the Arabs, who seem to be sitting on most of the world's oil.

But it is interesting that those who are most alarmed about the gasoline shortage in the 1970s are the same ones who worried in the 1960s that we were about to be asphyxiated by automobile exhausts—with one result that today's low-pollution but gas-guzzling cars have contributed no little bit to Udall's present "nightmare."

Scare talk is a good way to get people's attention; it is the worst possible way to encourage them to make rational decisions.

Another danger is that when they discover that the situation is not really as bad as they were led to believe, they may conclude that there is nothing to be concerned about at all.

Los Angeles' New Mayor

Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty became nationally known less as a Democratic presidential aspirant than as a world traveler. His frequent sallies from City Hall to distant places had brought him notoriety tinged with wry amusement. But Yorty's absenteeism and failures of leadership robbed him of effectiveness in directing the development of the nation's third largest city.

The expectation of many political observers, and of a majority of the Los Angeles voters, is that Mayor-elect Thomas Bradley will be a much better bargain. Perhaps the views of the Los Angeles Times should be discounted somewhat on grounds of partisanship, since that paper endorsed Bradley's candidacy. Still, his record and reputation lend an authentic ring to the Times' declaration: "At long last, Los Angeles has a mayor to match the stature of the city."

It is only incidental that Bradley is a Negro, though Yorty tried to smear him with a racist brush. His election was not a black bloc triumph; there are simply not enough blacks in the city to have been decisive. It was, rather, a triumph for the idea that capability rather than skin color should be the basis for choice of elected officials.

Bradley faces monumental challenges. He has already taken a step to meet one of them, the lack of a rapid transit system in this sprawling metropolis: Bradley proposes creation of a special planning agency, and says he thinks such a system might be gotten under way before his four-year term ends. This remains to be seen, but as a general thing it can be said that with the new administration taking office the prospects for Los Angeles have markedly improved.

Argentine Question: Who Will Run Country?

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
In Argentina, the question rapidly was boiling down to this: Who would run the country, the newly installed Peronist government of President Hector J. Campora or the Trotskyite terrorists?

Almost on the eve of Campora's inauguration the terrorists had demonstrated their contempt both for Campora's efforts at conciliation and the repressive efforts of the outgoing military regime by extracting $1 million from the Ford Motor Co. and threatening similar action against other companies.

In effect, the terrorists calling themselves the People's Revolutionary Army had established themselves as a shadow force whose challenge the government either must meet or surrender. It was an inauspicious beginning for the government and the immediate future of Argentina.

Would be Stand-In

Campora had won election on a platform which stated plainly he would serve merely as a stand-in for one-time dictator Juan D. Peron, who had been banned from seeking election himself. And the returns had shown that at least half of Argentina's 24 million people placed their hopes in Peron after years of political vacuum.

But Peron, who came to power in 1946 on a program of sweeping benefits to Argentina's "shirtless ones," now was 77 years old.

On his return to Argentina to launch the Campora campaign last November he had shown neither the energy nor the charisma of old.

When he first came to power the country's treasury was swollen with the profits of the sales of meat and wheat to the World War II allies. Now the country was $4 billion in debt, much of it traceable to the excesses and corruption of his rule.

The workers among his followers expected the new regime to increase materially their buying power and Campora began his first days in office by calling for wage increases of 10 to 50 per cent and reduced taxes on many consumer items. But in the face of Argentine inflation galloping ahead at a rate of more than 50 per cent per year they would be of short-lived benefit.

Government Grants Amnesty

In those hectic first days the new government granted amnesty to hundreds of prisoners in Argentine jails, including known guerrillas and one identified with the slaying of former President Pedro Aramburu. It recognized Cuba and repealed the 1966 law outlawing communism.

These were acts certain to rouse the suspicions of the military, many of whom had gone along with their surrender of power with deep misgivings.

Nor did it appease the Trotskyite terrorists who accused the new government of establishing a "national unity" between the army oppressors and the oppressed, between exploitative businessmen and the exploited workers, between the oligarchs who own the fields and the ranches and the dispossessed neons.

For the military the temptation to intervene will be great but to do so without the will of the people would be to fall into the trap set by the terrorists who would like nothing better than to see the country plunged into civil war.

Nixon And Mitchell Closeness A Sham

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Watergate, with all its destructive force, somehow still has not smashed one myth that deserves to die — the strong, persistent notion that President Nixon and former Attorney General, John Mitchell, were close personal friends.

That they are not intimate now is accepted, since Mitchell couldn't even get to see the President when he tried here a few weeks ago. That they ever were is an erroneous idea that has astonishingly wide currency in the press and elsewhere, and beclouds understanding of Watergate events.

In many quarters, for instance, it is almost automatically assumed that what Mitchell knew and did he quickly told Mr. Nixon, though not too much is said about the President consistently responding in kind.

Both he and Mitchell fostered the idea of a close relationship, and succeeded admirably in purveying it.

In a brief interview I had with Mitchell in December, 1968, he told me he did not anticipate serving as Attorney General and added: "I probably wouldn't be coming here if it weren't for the other thing."

He didn't have to spell that out. He presumed I would accept the vague short-hand phrase as indicating Mr. Nixon's well-advertised reliance upon him for personal counsel.

At 54, he stood in as a kind of elder statesman, if not a father figure, with his iron facade and ring of authority.

Mitchell surely did have some clout in this administration. What is wrong is the impression of closeness.

The idea got started, of course early in the campaign of 1968. Sources tell me that Mr. Nixon deliberately let it grow because he perceived it then as a matter of great political convenience.

One of the damaging consequences of his losing campaigns for the presidency in 1960 and the California governorship in 1962 was the belief that, since Mr. Nixon was presumably to be controlling all the levers himself, no one could speak for him or be counted upon to reach him directly with messages of advice. This troubled many key Republicans.

In 1968, when Mitchell sort of stumbled into the campaign chairmanship as others like California's Gaylord Parkinson dropped away, word went around that the President liked the Wall Street lawyer's ways.

They were pictured as having been good friends from before 1966, when Mitchell's small but prosperous law firm linked up with Mr. Nixon's. The candidate quickly saw the advantage in this portrait of a friendship.

Politicians could and did talk to Mitchell with the clear conviction that he spoke for the candidate, and had his ear. The old fuming about not getting to the man was held to a minimum. Hardly noticed was how little real political experience the veteran lawyer brought to the job.

Mitchell's appearance as the sturdy anchor advanced him further in the President's mind. He wanted that seasoned, authoritative look for the Cabinet — but it took all his persuasive powers to lure Mitchell to Washington. Once Mitchell was here, the legend of their closeness was secure. Yet it has no reality and the beleaguered Mitchell knew it long before he was indicted in New York in the Vesco campaign fund case.

Ann Landers: Five Years Later—Still No Gun Law

Dear Readers: Five years ago today, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy died from bullets fired by a deranged assassin in the ballroom of a Los Angeles hotel. I wrote a column expressing my outrage and shocked disbelief.

Today I am repeating that column as a grim reminder that Congress has yet to pass a gun law, despite the fact that since that dark day, a record number of civilians, police officers and public figures have been slain by hand-guns. Here is the column:

Bobby Kennedy is dead. I still can't believe it. A nation is stunned. Nobody smiles. People read each other's minds as they pass on the street, or in the office corridors, or in the supermarkets. Nobody says, "Hello." Everybody says, "Isn't it awful?" Strangers become friends for a few moments. Tragedy is a great equalizer.

But beyond the sadness are the questions. What does it all mean? Is the country having a mass nervous breakdown? A soldier in Vietnam, when asked to comment on the assassination, asked, "What in the hell is going on back home?"

Bobby Kennedy was a fatalist. He was offered extra security in Los Angeles, but refused it. In his own prophetic words, "If someone wants to get you—he'll get you." Bobby was right. Anyone who wants to shoot you down can do it. It's as easy to buy a gun today as a package of cigarettes.

How did America get this way? What in our national nature has produced this love of violence? And love it we must. We adored "Bonnie and Clyde." It broke records. Women flocked to buy leather coats like Bonnie's. Men bought checkered suits, like Clyde. We lapped up Truman Capote's book, "In Cold Blood." Millions of people were fascinated by the slaughter of "those nice Kansas folks." TV glorifies crime and brutality.

Is this penchant for violence global or American? The figures speak for themselves. In 1967 guns were involved in more than 6,500 murders in the United States. France had a total of 20 gun murders that same year. Belgium recorded 12 people killed by guns in 1967. Of the last 21 U.S. Presidents six have been shot at and four have been killed. According to Dr. John Spiegel, psychiatrist and Director for the Center for the Study of Violence at Brandeis University, "The United States Presidency may be the highest risk job in the world."

Cowboys and Indians are a traditional American game. The "good" man shoots the "bad" man, and that's the way to get rid of people you don't like. We buy our children toy guns and holsters and cap pistols and teach them that killing is manly and it can also be fun.

The President has appointed a Commission to study violence. Until they come up with some answers I'd like to offer a few suggestions. Don't buy your children toy guns. Don't allow them to watch violence on TV. Don't permit them to see movies that deal with murder. Train your children to settle their differences peacefully. If you see signs of extreme hostility, unusual quietness, or the inability to relate to others, take him to a specialist. Don't wait until he kills somebody.

Teach your children that gentleness is more effective than brutality, that mercy is more satisfying than revenge—that love is stronger than hate.

And here's one more thing you can do. Write or wire your Senator and tell him if he doesn't support a decent gun law the next time it comes up you will not vote for him again. The ballot box is YOUR strongest weapon.—Ann Landers

Law For Today

Q. Is it true that people can't burn their own tree and hedge clippings, leaves, rubbish and so forth any more? That's what my neighbor says. I thought you could still have a fire if it was on your own property and not in the ditch or in a public roadway.

A. Open burning of rubbish and the usual "landscape waste"—meaning grass clippings, tree and shrubbery trimmings, etc.—is a thing of the past, all in the interest of cleaner air for everyone. The Air Pollution Control Regulations promulgated by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency prohibit all open burning in municipalities having a population of 2,500 or more and within one mile of such municipalities. Residents must depend upon municipal disposal services. In smaller municipalities and rural areas, burning is permitted as a means of getting rid of "domestic waste" (the normal product of living in and around a single family dwelling including landscape waste) and "agricultural waste" (generated by a farm operation but excluding garbage and dead animals) under conditions set forth by the EPA. It will issue permits for burning of domestic and agricultural waste conducted on the premises where the waste is generated, when atmospheric conditions will readily dissipate contaminants and there is no hazard to visibility on roadways, railway tracks or air fields, among other restrictions.

Exceptions to the burning ban are made for legitimate campfires and certain small open flames. A bill which would have permitted the open burning of leaves was introduced in the Illinois legislature but it failed to pass. For further information: write to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, Springfield, Ill. or contact the State's Attorney in your county.

5 Latin Nations Eligible To Buy Planes: Rogers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said Tuesday that President Nixon has found Chile and Argentina—as well as Brazil, Columbia and Venezuela—eligible to buy the F5E "International Freedom Fighter" airplane.

Rogers made the first disclosure of this decision before the House Foreign Affairs Committee. He recently completed a 17-day trip to Latin America.

State Department officials said today that there was no special political significance to the decision, which was taken in response to inquiries from a number of Latin American countries. President Nixon made the determination before Rogers visited Latin America, the officials said.

Rogers also defended the decision to sell sophisticated F4 Phantom fighter-bombers to Saudi Arabia and possibly also to Kuwait, a move opposed by Israel.

He said these sales would not upset the Middle East military balance and would be important in promoting the security of the Persian Gulf area where the United States has "important interests."

Israel opposes the sale of sophisticated American weaponry to any Arab states, contending that such supplies could upset the delicate Middle East balance of strength and that arms sold to one Arab country could end up in another which might go to war with Israel.

One of the prime motivations of the Latin American countries is to modernize their air forces with the subsonic F5E. Many Latin American countries are still relying on the Korean War-vintage F86 as their primary defense fighter.

Family Marks Anniversary Of Robert Kennedy's Death

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — She skis with Jean-Claude Killy, plays tennis with Rod Laver, lunches with Art Buchwald. But only occasionally.

In the last five years since her husband was shot to death in a Los Angeles hotel kitchen, Ethel Kennedy has led a quiet life, spending most of her time with her children—all 11 of them.

The raucous, back-lawn parties of the early '60s, when it wasn't unusual for a Cabinet member to take a pool-dunking, have given way to smaller dinner parties for a few close friends.

Despite occasional rumors, Mrs. Kennedy attends most social functions alone and friends say she has no plans to remarry.

At 45, she is trim, equally at ease in flared pants or a long skirt. Her curly blonde hair is slightly frosted to hide flecks of gray.

"If she's ever glum, it never shows," says a close Kennedy friend. "She centers her life around other people. She's a very caring person."

Hickory Hill, the handsome Kennedy estate in McLean, Va., still is a gathering place for the family, friends, a handful of servants, one turtle named Kruthers and three dogs, including Freckles, the late Robert F. Kennedy's black-and-white spaniel. During much of the winter, a sign on the Kennedys' front door read: "Beware—Trespassers will be eaten."

It is here under the spreading hickory trees where the Kennedy family and friends will gather tonight for a private memorial Mass on the fifth anniversary of Sen. Kennedy's death.

"All the children are flying in for it," a family friend said. "It must be hard for them to have to relive the emotional trauma of their father's death each year."

Joseph P. Kennedy III, the eldest son who, at 15, walked through his father's funeral train and thanked people for coming, is 20 now. He attended the University of California at Berkeley briefly beginning last January but dropped out because he said he "could get a better education out of school."

Kathleen Kennedy, at 21, is the family's eldest daughter. Last spring she took a semester off from Radcliffe College in Cambridge, Mass., to study journalism independently, and she returned Tuesday from a trip to Ireland.

Robert Kennedy Jr. is 19 now and a sophomore at Harvard. His long black hair hangs to his shoulders, and a school friend describes him as "sort of shy." Last summer he paid $13 to get a friend out of jail in Colombia during a two-week visit to South America. The friend had been arrested for playing rock music on a cathedral pipe organ.

David, 17, Courtney, 16, and Michael, 15, are in New England prep schools. The younger Kennedy children attend private school near their home.

THE NUDE BODY of Betty Harmon, 29, (shown in file photo) was found in a field near Peotone, Ill., along interstate 57. She had been killed with a shotgun, apparently late June 3rd, the same day a young couple from Chicago were slain along I-57. Police speculate there may be a connection between the murders along I-57 and have increased patrols. Police have asked motorists who saw anything suspicious June 3rd to inform police. (UPI)

BLIND FATHER SAVES DAUGHTER FROM DROWNING

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A blind father rescued his 3-year-old daughter from drowning Tuesday, finding her under water in a swimming pool by tracking the sound of air bubbles from her lungs.

Thomas Sullivan, 26, told police his daughter Blythe fell in the pool at the family home while he was on the telephone. He heard the splash, he said, and ran outside. Standing beside the pool, he listened to the sound of air bubbles rising to the surface and moved about the pool until he thought he had the source located, then jumped in and found the girl under seven feet of water.

Blythe was revived by mouth to mouth respiration and was reported in satisfactory condition.

A-Plant Shutdown Sought By Nader Would Affect 8 Million Power Users

By PAUL A. DRISCOLL
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — The shutdown of four nuclear-powered generating plants in Northern Illinois, as sought in a lawsuit, unquestionably would affect some 8 million electricity consumers, Commonwealth Edison Co. contends.

How seriously remains to be seen.

"If it's an unusually cool summer," a spokesman for the utility said, "we might be able to squeeze by."

"But a week or so of temperatures in the 90s" would push demand for electrical power beyond the supply capacity of Commonwealth Edison, he said. There would be little chance of getting replacement power from elsewhere, the spokesman said.

To the household consumer, there would be no immediate grave hardship, slightly dimmer lights, perhaps, some shrinkage around the edges of television pictures, electric motors running a little slower.

This would be the effect of a brownout, a situation in which the utility might reduce the power in its lines from 120 volts to, say, 115.

If this remedy proved insufficient, the Commonwealth Edison spokesman said, the next step would be to ask for voluntary curtailment of the use of electricity, particularly by big consumers.

"This would be unprecedented," he said.

Commonwealth Edison serves Chicago and about 13,000 square miles in the northern part of the state—that part east of a line drawn from about Freeport on the north to about Pontiac on the south.

If the suit filed in Washington Thursday by consumer advocate Ralph Nader and Friends of the Earth, an environmental group, should succeed, it would close two nuclear-fueled power plants in Grundy County and two in Rock Island County.

The suit contends that the Atomic Energy Commission licensed the plants without insisting on adequate safety measures.

A successful suit would reduce Commonwealth Edison's present generating capacity by about 20 per cent—from 14 million kilowatts to 11.2 million.

In 1972, the summer peak consumption was 11.75 million kilowatts and the peak forecast for this summer is 12.75 million.

There's a possibility of beginning operation this summer of the utility's new Zion nuclear station, but that would not provide sufficient power to overcome any loss suffered through the suit.

In fact, Commonwealth Edison says it was counting on the Zion plant to fill a supply-demand gap developing independent of any that might result from the Nader suit.

Commonwealth Edison's lines are hooked into those of some adjoining states to form a grid known as the Mid-America Interpool Network, which permits power companies to borrow electricity from neighboring systems during times of shortage. A utility also may go beyond its network if necessary for surplus power.

However, the Commonwealth Edison spokesman said, a successful suit would put the entire network below the danger point.

Normally, the spokesman said, a utility or network should have a surplus capacity of about 14 per cent to allow for normal breakdown of equipment.

The Mid-America network, which includes Missouri, Wisconsin and Michigan's Upper Peninsula in addition to Illinois, would have a surplus of only 2 to 3 per cent if the challenged nuclear plants were shut down.

With all plants operating, the anticipated surplus would be about 18 per cent.

The possibility of help from outside the network is questionable, he said.

"My guess is that there wouldn't be any great surplus power," the spokesman said. "They've got problems of their own."

CASS MENTAL HEALTH PROGRAM TO BE EXPLAINED

BEARDSTOWN — July 1 has been announced as the date for an "open house" program designed to offer the citizens of the county an opportunity to become better acquainted with the Cass County Mental Health Department operations.

A meeting May 16 at the Schmitt Memorial hospital annex was the occasion for the appearance of Don St. Lawrence, regional administrator for the Department of Mental Health. He assured the Cass group that funding will be forthcoming in July.

The problems attendant upon the funding, including location of the Cass county clinic, hiring of responsible personnel and other matters were discussed.

The open house will be an occasion when citizens may meet the new Executive Director and get information on the type of assistance to be given at the clinic.

Those attending the meeting were Mrs. Catherine Nelson, Marguerite Hampton, the Rev. William Browning, Attorney Reed Woolley, Don Baugher, Lou Albrecht, Erwin Krumweide, Edw. L. C. Carls, Esther Morrison, Audrey Bins, Jim Sichlau, Greg Mahlandt, Leon Kennerly, and John White.

Nursing Scholarships

Three nursing school scholarships have been awarded by the Schmitt Memorial Hospital Auxiliary to Linda Clements, a student from Perry, Mollie McGovern of Beardstown, and Paula Kellerman.

The hospital auxiliary is planning to sponsor a booth at the Fall Festival, and a clinic for babysitters.

Mrs. Margaret Carnahan Rice and Mrs. Gloria Gramann Hays discussed plans for the Pre-Natal classes to be sponsored soon. Mrs. Rice will teach, and has asked the auxiliary to consider raising funds to pay for films needed for the courses.

"Right now I might have a hard time getting into college because my hair is so short."

thousands of dollars on carts that are stolen, lost or broken. This must be added to our grocery bills. Can't something be done? I have offered to pay a deposit when removing such a cart from a building, or help them find some other solution, but they are afraid of offending customers. DEAR ESTHER — I am sure your letter will point out their carelessness to many of these offenders who may not have been aware of the expensive havoc they are causing.—POLLY

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Honey May Ease Problem
Some Can't
Digest All Sugars

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—In a column you state that people can be sensitive to sugar if it is a disaccharide, but not a monosaccharide. And you recommend using honey.

I assure you that some people are sensitive to honey, and to all sugars except glucose.

I don't know why—I only know it is so—as the farmer said when he saw the giraffe.

Dear Reader—There are individual responses to foods. No doubt some individuals are sensitive to honey. Whether this is a type of food allergy or some other peculiarity I can't state for certain. Perhaps one explanation was offered by another reader who wrote to complain to me that not all honey was pure honey but the honey manufacturers were permitted to add syrup in limited amounts to honey and still label it pure. If this is true, the adding of a disaccharide (double sugar) to honey would make it less tolerable to individuals who can't split double sugars and absorb them.

Glucose is a single sugar. Ordinary table sugar is a double sugar. It's split in half by an enzyme in the intestinal wall and then absorbed as a single sugar. You are correct, if a person were exceptionally sensitive to disaccharides, limiting sugar intake to glucose would eliminate the problem. The double sugar sucrose is common in natural fruits. Fortunately most individuals do not have an absolute intolerance to double sugars and can use small amounts but there are individuals who can't even tolerate this. Individuals who are truly, absolutely intolerant of table sugar or sucrose are relatively rare—almost as rare as a giraffe in a barnyard.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I would like for you to answer a few questions for me about artificial insemination. I understand that one must have a donor match up with her husband. But, couldn't the husband be that donor? Under what condition can a woman have artificial insemination? Does this have to be done with the husband's consent? Does this have to be done in a hospital? Answer soon for I am thinking about having this done.

Dear Reader—Artificial insemination has long been practiced in animal husbandry. In this way, for example, a quality or prize-winning bull may father many more calves than would be otherwise possible. It has had less extensive use in people—usually only when the man is sterile. Rarely, it might have some value when normal relations are impossible for anatomical or other reasons but the husband is not sterile. This would be the only possible reason for using artificial insemination with the husband being the donor.

Most couples want the offspring to have as many of the characteristics of the parents as possible. For that reason they choose a donor who has personal characteristics similar to the husband but this isn't an absolute requirement.

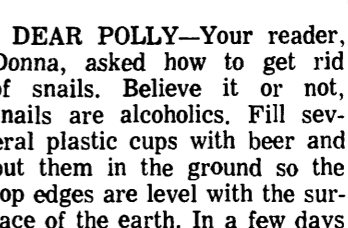

Any woman who contemplates pregnancy through any means should do so with the full consent and cooperation of her husband. Artificial insemination is no exception. A woman who achieved pregnancy by this means without her husband's consent would likely have serious marital problems afterwards.

It's not possible to have this procedure done everywhere. Anyone desiring this procedure should contact the obstetrics and gynecology department of the nearest university medical center for information.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve concerns the shopping carts that are taken from stores and left in parking lots and even taken completely out of the neighborhood and then left on the street or in a vacant lot. This makes me very indignant. Parking places in the lots are often blocked by these carts thus causing a hazard to our cars and the carts and taking up needed space. I have been told these carts cost about $35 each. The markets must lose

DEAR POLLY—Your reader, Donna, asked how to get rid of snails. Believe it or not, snails are alcoholics. Fill several plastic cups with beer and put them in the ground so the top edges are level with the surface of the earth. In a few days the cups will be full of snails and some other garden pests, too.—LEROY

DEAR POLLY—Tell Hazel that to control the snails that are on her steps she could spread a line of ordinary lime along the ground. This will also sweeten the soil and can be easily replaced when it washes away. The lime burns them as they go through it and then they dry up.—PEGGY

Some six years ago, I first met and wrote about John Dornes, an architect, artist and antiques collector in Monroe, N.Y. It was his sideline hobby which interested me: photographing people as they might have looked 100 years ago.

Dressed in an Edwardian outfit and surrounded by an assortment of authentic antique costumes, Dornes was a feature of the New York Flea Market. This is an exhibition of antique dealers, craftsmen and collectors now in its 10th year — Sunday only, in good weather — $4.

on a parking lot corner in mid-New York City.

Dornes studied each subject before selecting an appropriate costume which could slip over the subject's clothing. He sometimes added old-time headgear or an authentic period prop and then took a picture with a Polaroid camera under a drop cloth. In 10 seconds he knew whether the result was satisfactory. He devised special methods to fix and "age" the print and then mounted it under an oval mat in an old-fashioned gilt frame. The complete operation took five minutes and cost

THIS "PAGODA" actually is on the fashionable Avenue de las Americas in Madrid, capital of Spain. It is five stories high, has six sides, and lets you see every which way in the city.

People stood in line to get this modern-day "daguerreotype" of themselves because it was evident that Dornes took pride in his work and the results were not only novel but good examples of portraiture. Well, our paths have crossed again and it's time to update Dornes' photographic adventures. His sideline specialty has been unique and so successful that it has become his fulltime activity.

Dornes has just opened an old-fashioned photo studio, circa 1850, with Victorian tufted chairs, velvet hangings, marble statuary and traditional props and accessories. Appropriately enough, the studio is located in a newly created "New York Antiques Center," a comprehensive grouping of dealers and services in mid-Manhattan, catering to the antiques industry.

Dornes estimates he has taken more than 160,000 daguerreotype-style portraits and the experience has sharpened his judgment in selecting the particular costume for each subject that would be appropriate or flatter each individual's personality.

"It's an instantaneous reaction as I see each new face," he says, "and the choice of costume is mine, not theirs. I visualize their character, then make sure to interpret it photographically with predetermined lighting, background and accessories. If the first picture isn't satisfactory because the subject blinked or had an unsuitable expression, I'll take it over again. The picture must satisfy me as well as the subject."

During the years, Dornes' unique specialty has resulted in assignments at important public and private parties and he has photographed innumerable celebrities as they might have looked a century ago. Among others, he has photographed the guests at parties given by the Duchess of Windsor in New York and Mamie Eisenhower and Secretary of State Laird in Washington. He has been flown across the country by major television networks for special events and has appeared on TV talk shows for interviews and demonstrations. In addition, he has done record album covers on nostalgic themes and has shared an assignment with famous fashion photographer Richard Avedon who represented "Today" in pictures while

Dornes, working with the same models, interpreted "Yesterday."

When under pressure, Dornes can produce a photograph a minute and has done up to 300 a day. He has trained four of his friends through the years so they can assist or take over the studio when he is called away on special assignments. With changes in times and prices, the cost of a Dornes studio portrait is now $6.

With photography presently his full-time career, Dornes' story reveals again how a hobby can develop into an exciting, rewarding vocation with application of imagination, ingenuity and the ability to produce good results.

The Weeders' Guide

By EARL ARONSON

AP Newsfeatures

Editor's note: This is the second column about a tour to Israel.

Israel is observing its 25th anniversary as a nation this year. Despite its preoccupation with fighting wars, immigration, and building homes and cities, it hasn't neglected its fruits, vegetables and flowers. The apples don't have the same rosy coloring as those in New York because there are few Israeli autumn nights. In the space of a few years, however, according to researchers at the government's Volcani Agricultural Institute, Israel has become the world leader in producing subtropical avocados. It produces peaches, apricots, pears and huge quantities of citrus fruits. It cuts roses and has them on the flower stands in Europe the next morning.

The avocado stemmed largely from experimentation of 40 years by Prof. Chanan Ophir, but Volcani's deputy director, Haim Zaban, said the spurt came recently from gifts by Sam Hamburg, a farmer in California's San Joaquin Valley.

Next we visited Menachim Sachs, head of the department of vegetable crops, who also stressed production for export. Israel now produces some items all year. In four years, the world celery production soared "from nothing to 10,000 tons and the country is now engaged in an education campaign to develop a home market for it."

Strawberry production, mainly in spring, is now moving to late autumn and winter. "The goal is to produce when no one else has and this means changing the life habits of plants, changing their metabolism, changing the very nature of plants," Sachs said.

The berries are cooled for shipment and may be stored for more than a week without harm, he related.

Thousands of acres of early watermelons are planted and the luscious fruit can be delivered in Italy 10 days before the popular crop is ready there. The same early delivery is made of artichokes to France and Italy, two big producers and users.

Annon Kadman, horticulturist, handles citriculture, deciduous crops, subtropical and tropical items, including bananas and palm dates.

Dr. Kadman led me to the greenhouses and test plots to see his avocados. The problem, he said, was that the avocado was sensitive to saline soil. He is testing West Indies, Guatemalan and Mexican rootstocks to find the one most tolerant to salt. He is also working to propagate vegetatively instead of by grafting, admittedly a long, arduous task.

Dr. Kadman uses radioisotopes to trace the course of food and water through the avocado tree, utilizing a Geiger counter or scintillation.

As we walked through the controlled atmosphere of greenhouses, he urged caution — and speed — to avoid a device that emitted a spray for several seconds every minute. Temperature, humidity and light are tested constantly.

Blue plastic bags covering banana bunches, he explained, protected them from climatic conditions. And he pointed to new Chinese gooseberries from New Zealand being grown in vermiculite in one hothouse.

Another item being tested is the litchi nuts, which we had eaten fresh for the first time two years earlier in Hong Kong. Other experimental items are macadamia nuts, quite expensive in the United States; loquats, borne on an evergreen; persimmon; annona; guavas and pecan nuts. Israel also has many grapes, olives, cherries, almonds, apricots, figs. The major experiments, however, are with avocados, mangos, dates and bananas.

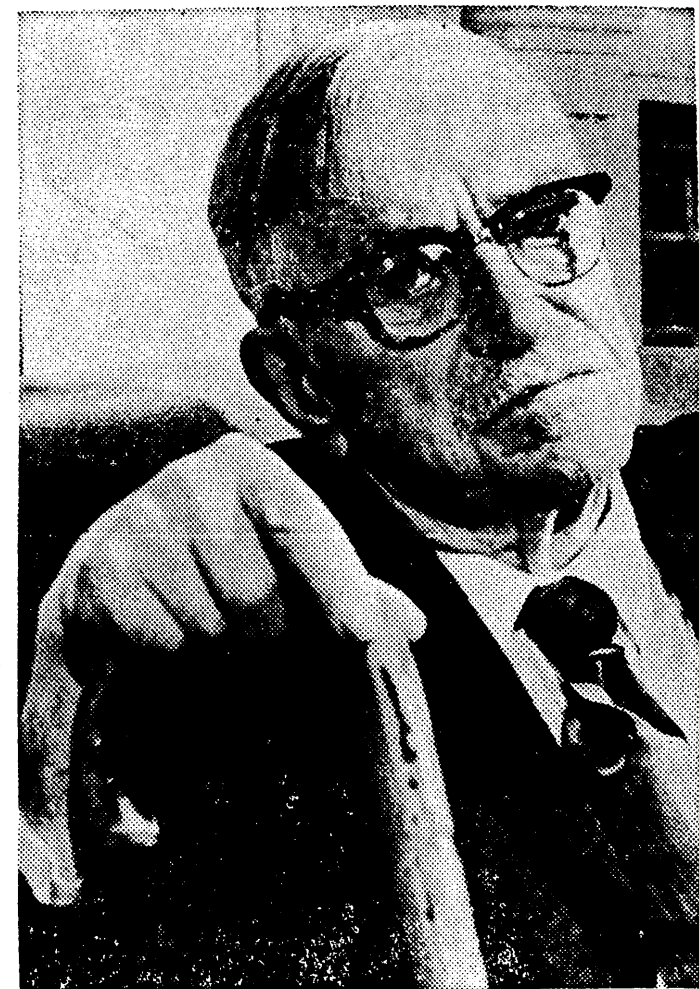

warp or otherwise get out of shape.

Q. — I intend to put a plastic laminate top on an old table. The man in the store that sells the plastic said I have to put a sheet of plastic laminate on the bottom of the table top as well. He said he didn't know the reason, but that professional woodworkers do this. Is this true and why is it done?

A. — Some do. Most don't. The theory, however, is sound. When you place the plastic laminate on the top of the table, that part of it is shut off from air. The bottom isn't — and over a period of time, warpage may result. I did a similar job some years ago, but instead of placing a sheet of plastic laminate on the underside of the table top, I sealed it with three coats of shellac, mixed 50-50 with denatured alcohol. So far there has been no warpage.

(The techniques of applying varnish, shellac, lacquer and other wood finishing materials are explained in Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," available by sending 30 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743.)

As a topping for a very sweet dessert, beat together cream cheese, sour cream and heavy cream. Add just enough of the creams to give a good consistency.

35 OR SO YEARS AGO you heard from this man a good deal, but he's been somewhat out of the news since. He's Earl Browder, once head of the Communist party in the United States. Just turned 82, Browder lives in Princeton, N.J.

Handyman Woes... Here's The Answer

By ANDY LANG

AP Newsfeatures

Q. — My young son got a toy tool chest for Christmas. I had my misgivings about it, but he got plenty of use from it and my fears about damaged furniture and such were never realized. Yesterday, however, he got rambunctious with the hammer and banged a hole in our dining room wall, which is made of gypsum board. How can it be fixed? The hole goes about half way through the board.

A. — Buy some of the cement that is used for filling the seams of wallboard. Fill the opening about half way with the cement. Don't bother to smooth it out, since an irregular surface will enable the second application to grip better. Wait about 24 hours, then fill the remainder of the damaged area with cement until it is the very tiniest bit above the gypsum board. Wait another 24 hours, then sand the patch even with the surrounding surface. Touch up to match.

Q. — I am getting ready to install solid wood paneling in or attic. In looking over the very different kinds of paneling, I found out from the lumber dealer that I must buy the panels about a week before I put them up. He said they had to be stored in the house ahead of time. I never thought to ask him why. I'd like to know the reason.

A. — Any wood to be installed should be kept in the room where it is to be used for several days before being attached to the framework. It should be stacked so that air can circulate around each piece. This is to permit the wood to adjust to the room's normal humidity. Then, when it is installed, it is less likely to Patients Should Have Access To Local Prescription Prices!

"Excerpts from U.S. Task Force Comments on drug field today"

There is an obvious need for patients to be able to determine readily the prices charged by the various pharmacies in their community. This appears to be particularly important in the case of long-term maintenance drugs.

The Task Force recognizes the difficulties in making such information easily available. Many patients are not told which drug has been prescribed for them—or are unable to decipher the physician's prescription.

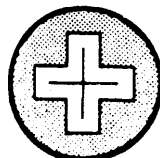

The Task Force recognizes that many or most patients may wish to select a pharmacy more on the basis of convenient location than on the basis of price. Nevertheless, if the patient is to maintain the right to select a pharmacy, he also has a right to know the prices it charges and to compare these with other prices.

Medicare Pharmacies is in complete agreement with these findings.

Call us and get a price on your prescription before having it filled, no obligation is intended, our pharmacists await your calls.

All experts pride themselves on their ability to play three no-trump contracts, but the late P. Hal Sims was particularly proud of his ability to improvise ways to make important extra tricks.

Today's hand shows Hal at his best.

West's Jack of clubs held the first trick and since East had played the deuce West shifted to the four of spades. Dummy's ace won and East dropped another deuce.

Hal tried to get his hand with the queen of hearts, but West produced the king and led the suit right back.

Hal was back in dummy again and led a low diamond. His eight lost to West's king. West led his 10 of hearts and there Hal was, right where he didn't want to be.

Nothing daunted, he ran off four diamond tricks. West discarded three spades and East two.

Hal cashed dummy's ace of clubs and got the queen from East and the eight from West.

Up to this point Hal had played with lightning speed. He stopped to think; led a club from dummy. East was in with the king and had to give Hal game and rubber with the top spade.

Simple, or was it? Just try the hand on anyone and see if he works the whole play out.

BEARDSTOWN BUS BIDS RECEIVED

BEARDSTOWN — Bids have been received by the school board for providing a new bus for the local fleet.

Bids for the chassis were received from Bill Bence Ford, the Modern Chevrolet, and Werner GMC of Springfield. The high bid was $4,324.76, and the low bid was $3,915.60. The Bill Bence Ford bid was the lowest.

Four companies made bids for the bus body, including trade-in allowances for a 1966 and a 1961 bus.

Proposals to sell one of the trade-ins to the Baptist church were considered.

Need of a new bus seems to depend on the board discretion regarding the possible need for an additional bus route. Superintendent Darnell and members of the transportation committee will probably make a decision on this matter.

Knarss Celebrate
Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Knarss were honored on their 49th wedding anniversary recently at the Golden Age center. Thirty-five friends and relatives gathered for the potluck dinner, after which guests spent the afternoon playing cards.

Beardstown Day
When the Cardinals of St. Louis meet the Cubs of Chicago at Busch Stadium in St. Louis June 24 a large representation from this city will be on hand for Beardstown Day.

Only a few seats are still available for the bus ride to St. Louis, and Chamber of Commerce authorities are hoping these will be purchased in the next few days.

Tom Penwarden, Beardstown's most ardent Cub fan, thinks this affair will be bigger and better than that of a year ago.

GIRLS ATHLETICS COMING TO FORE

They won't be filling the Assembly Hall or drawing college scouts by the hundreds, but you are going to be seeing and hearing a lot more about the state's high school girls athletes, starting immediately.

Illinois' high schools have readied themselves in recent years for the growing interest in girls' athletics and if early returns are a true indication, participation will continue to jump to the point where the girls will be commanding more and more of the prep sports scene.

Girls athletics, if you could call it that, in Illinois, historically, was limited to the Girls Athletic Association (GAA) until some four years ago. That consisted primarily of play day type activities with no competition between schools.

Four years ago the Illinois High School Association permitted inter-scholastic competition in seven sports. Now contests between girls from different schools are permitted in no less than 14 sports, with state playoffs in three sports.

GIRLS ARE NOW taking on the opposition in archery, badminton, bowling, fencing, swimming, tennis, track and field, golf, gymnastics, basketball, field hockey, softball, soccer and volleyball, with state finals held in tennis, bowling and track and field. That list of play-offs will probably be expanded in future years.

IHSA President James Brim, Triopia High School Principal and a resident of Jacksonville, is one of those who feels the recent rise in interest and participation in girls athletics is a plus situation.

"The IHSA certainly thinks the increase in interest is good," says Brim. "It will cause some adjustment and create some work and there will be some problems, but anytime you can expand a program to involve more students it is good. I feel that if competition is good for boys, there have to be some good aspects for the girls as well and it should be encouraged."

"The school people have asked us to try to concentrate on the current three state playoffs for another year before expansion, but I feel it will be expanded in future years. There is some competition for facilities between the boys and girls in some places so the school people feel we can't expand too quickly."

THE FIRST STATE playoffs this past school year certainly indicated the interest was there. "The tennis was just out of this world," comments Brim. "We didn't expect to have enough competitors to have to hold preliminaries, but something like 135 schools entered the tournament and we had to go through districts. Bowling was very well received, with preliminaries held, and the interest was great in track and field, with schools entered from all over the state."

Brim adds that records of all state competition will be compiled by the IHSA, adding to the interest in excellence at the state level through the years.

There are still some who contend that girls should be allowed to compete on the same teams as the boys, and the IHSA currently has a suit pending to that effect. On the subject, Brim says, "I think it is a disservice to girls to put them with the boys. I'm not saying they cannot compete with the boys and sometimes come out ahead. We compared the times and distances in the girls and boys state track meets and I am satisfied girls should have the opportunity to compete against other girls."

HOW DOES THE program in Illinois rate with other states around the country? Brim explains. "Generally speaking, the trend around the country shows an increasing interest in girls athletics. A number of states are doing different things. Some are ahead of us in ways, but I think our program is moving along and will develop as logically and reasonably as any have."

On the local and area scene, Brim reports a new program. Brim, also the President of the PMSC Conference, says that conference will be starting softball competition next fall and a tentative schedule has been drawn. "It is not mandatory, but it looks like several schools will be participating," says Brim. "We will also have a track meet for the girls in the PMSC conference next spring, and we will encourage schools to have winter competition in volleyball."

State Baseball Tourney Starts

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — The 34th annual Illinois State High School Baseball Tournament opens Thursday with such a balanced field that the only thing certain is a new champion will be crowned.

Defending titlist Niles West was eliminated in the finals of the Des Plaines sectional 6-5 by the Willowbrook Warriors on a last inning grand slam homer by Steve Anderson.

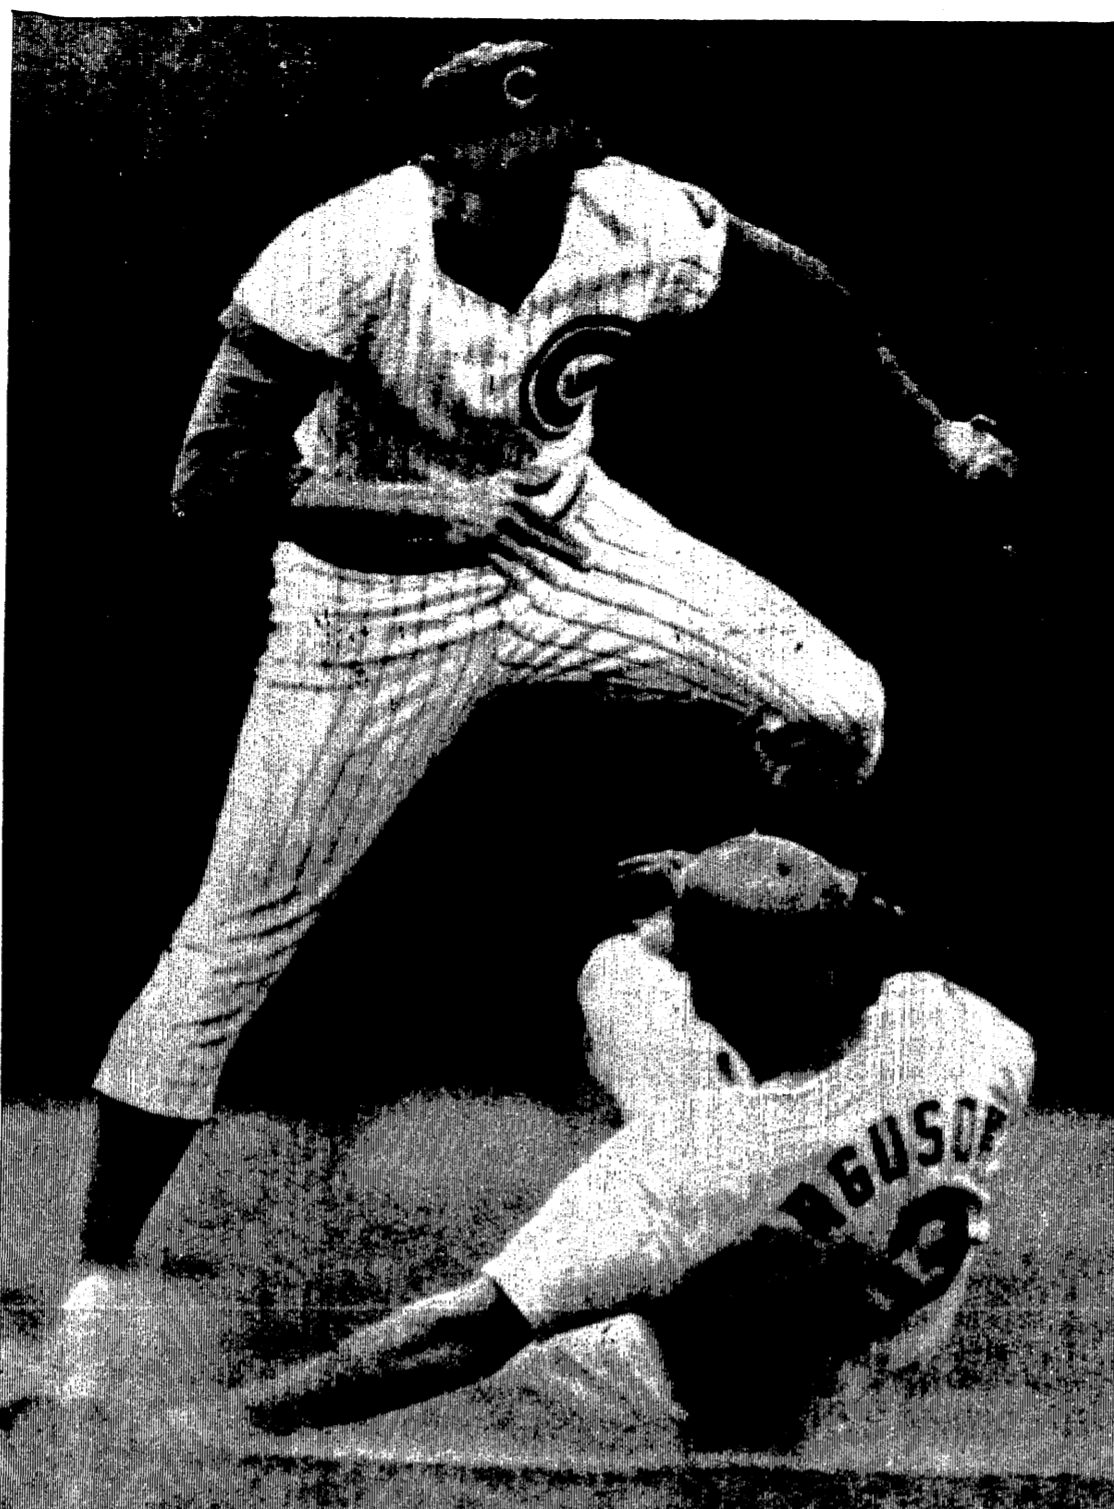

Willowbrook, 14-8, faces Lincolnwood's Lancers, 16-4, to start quarterfinal action at 9:30 a.m. at Bradley University's Meinen Field.

Galesburg's Silver Streaks, 20-2 with an 18-game winning streak, meet the Hubbard Greyhounds of Chicago, 22-3, in the second contest—and it could be the best of the opening round.

In the afternoon, the Lincoln Raiders, 18-9, play Aurora West's Blackhawks, 16-6, and the Joliet West Tigers, 18-5, oppose the Maroons of Belleville West, 21-5.

The semi-finals will be Friday morning, leading to the championship game at 7:30 p.m. that night.

Some observers think Galesburg and Belleville West, in opposite brackets, could be on a MONTREAL (AP) — Darrell Evans and Dave Johnson each hit two-run homers and Phil Niekro and Danny Frisella combined on a four-hitter to lead the Atlanta Braves to a 5-3 victory over the Montreal Expos Wednesday night.

Johnson's two-run blast in the eighth snapped a 3-3 tie for the winning runs.

Atlanta took a 1-0 lead in the first when Evans drilled a two out triple and scored on Mike Lum's ground-rule double.

Montreal tied the score in the fourth but Evans gave the Braves a 3-1 lead in the sixth when he followed Ralph Garr's single with a towering homer, his 12th of the year.

Bonds Sparkles As Giants Down Pittsburgh 9-7

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bobby Bonds got four hits, including a leadoff homer in the first inning, drove in two runs and scored four to lead the hot San Francisco Giants to their seventh straight victory Wednesday night—a 9-7 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Bonds, who leads the majors in runs scored with 60, triggered a three-run rally in the second with a two-out single. He did the same thing with one out in the sixth, when the Giants scored three times, by singling, going to third on a two-base error and scoring on a wild pitch in the seventh.

The Giants went ahead for good with three runs in the sixth when Bonds singled and scored on a double by Tito Fuentes. Garry Maddox was intentionally walked, but Willie McCovey promptly drove in two more runs with a single.

Kline Scatters Nine Hits In 5-2 Win Over Texas

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Steve Kline, making his first start since May 28 because of stiffness in his pitching elbow, scattered nine hits in pitching the New York Yankees to a 5-2 victory over the Texas Rangers Wednesday night. Kline was aided by Sparky Lyle's strong relief pitching and shortstop Gene Michael's hidden ball trick.

Michael ambushed Vic Harris with the hidden ball trick for the third out in the fifth inning, cutting short a rally that produced the Rangers' first run. Harris was on second base following Marrah's sacrifice fly when Michael pretended to throw the ball to Kline. Harris stepped off the bag and Michael tagged him.

Cardenal Carries Cubs Past LA, 6-4

CHICAGO (AP) — Jose Cardenal drove in three runs on a two-run homer and sacrifice fly, and the Chicago Cubs ended Don Sutton's four-game winning streak Wednesday with a 6-4 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Cardenal's homer after Ron Santo's single in the fifth gave the Cubs a 2-1 lead and then the National League East-leading Cubs chased Sutton, 7-4, with a four-run sixth.

Pat Bourque, Ron Santo and Don Kessinger poked one-run singles and Cardenal produced another run on a sacrifice fly in the sixth as the Cubs moved ahead 6-1.

Burt Hooton, 6-3, earned the victory with last-out help from reliever Jack Aker.

Until Cardenal's two-run homer, his No. 6 of the season, in the fifth, Sutton had limited the Cubs to Bourque's inling-opening single in the second which was wasted as the Dodger hurler struck out Santo and Ken Rudolph and got Cardenal on an infield popout.

The roof caved in on Sutton in the Cubs' four-run sixth. Four straight singles, including run-producing blows by Bourque and Santo, chased Sutton without an out.

Cardenal belted a sacrifice fly off reliever George Culver scoring Bourque and the fourth Chicago run of the inning came on Don Kessinger's single, scoring Santo from third.

The Dodgers seemed headed for a rousing start in the first on singles by Buckner and Ferguson and Crawford's two-bagger. But Crawford's blow which scored Buckner became the third out when Ferguson overran third and was tagged out by Santo after the relay from left field.

Secretariat 'Ready For Big One'

NEW YORK (AP) — Trainer Lucien Laurin worked Secretariat Wednesday and said, "We're ready for the big one," while trainer Frank "Pancho" Martin added some spice to the Belmont Stakes by announcing he will run Knightly Dawn as an entry with Sham.

Secretariat, favored to win the Triple Crown by adding a victory in Saturday's 1½-mile Belmont Stakes to his electrifying triumphs in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, worked a half-mile in 46 3/5 and went out five-eighths of a mile in 59 2/5.

"I thought it was marvelous," said Mrs. John Tweedy, operator of Meadow Stable.

"He was well within himself," said jockey Ron Turcotte who was up on Secretariat for the workout. "I didn't ask him to go faster."

"That just a big gallop for him," was the reaction of George Poole, trainer of C. V. Whitney's Pvt. Smiles, one of six 3-year-olds expected to start in the Belmont.

Following the workout at Belmont Park, Laurin was commenting on the lack of speed in the race and how it might affect the expected duel between Secretariat and Sham, runner-up in both the Derby and Preakness, beaten 2½ lengths each time.

Then, Martin announced that he will enter the front-running Knightly Dawn along with Sham.

Other expected starters for the Belmont—entries will be 9-3; Billingham, Cin 8-2; Wise, St. L. 7-2; Sutton, LA and Seaver, NY 7-3.

Winkles swiveled around in his office chair to look at the small plastic vial on his shelf.

It was the type your local pharmacist dispenses, the kind a number of big league managers use to keep those pills they take for their stomachs.

"Oh, that," laughed Winkles, the former Arizona State baseball coach now managing the California Angels, "it's not for any pills, it's only for some mouth wash I like to use after I finish chewing tobacco. No, I don't have an ulcer. If I had to take Maalox or any of that other stuff, I'd quit."

Bobby Winkles, in only his first year as a major league manager, sounds as if he means it. That doesn't mean he's not enjoying his job, because he is. Maybe even more than he did coaching at Arizona State where he put in 13 years.

"It's given me a whole new life," he says. "I remember last winter after I was named manager, Don Rickles, the comedian, came to this affair I was at in Phoenix, and started talking about the Angels."

Rickles Talks About Him
"He spoke about Del Rice, who managed the club before me. Rickles said Rice was still in a nursing home in Anaheim, and after one year he still could utter a few words. Then he talked about me and said, 'Look at Bobby's dumb wife, Ellie. She's saying it's a good move.'"

Winkles smiled.
"I'd say it has been, so far," he said. "The difference between managing here and coaching at Arizona State is not that much. You're still handling 25 men. That was how many I had there, too. The strategy I use is no different. Of course, the players' ages here run from 22 to 37 and they were only 18 to 21 at Arizona State. The fact the players up here get salaries makes it a little tougher, too, but basically it's the same. I will admit there is a helluva lot more pressure to win here, though. I can feel it."

The one thing Winkles insists upon from his players is hustle. That was the way it was at Arizona State, and that's the way it is now that he's handling the Angels.

His players run to and from their positions at the beginning and end of each half inning. They don't jog or lope, they run.

When they come in from their positions in the field, they act as if the last man in the dugout is a dirty name. Nobody wants to be the last one in, and you ought to see Bob Oliver, the rightfielder, bust his shoelaces trying to get into the dugout before, say, leftfielder Vada Pinson.

A Myriad of Reasons
Winkles likes to see his players run for a myriad of reasons. Running helps keep them in condition and win ball games, but there are other reasons.

"By the players running to and from their positions, it cuts down on the game time," says Winkles. "I like to get those kids who come out to our games home no later than 10 o'clock."

While at Arizona State, Winkles helped in the development of such eventual big leaguers as Sal Bando, Rick Monday, Reggie Jackson, Duffy Dyer, Gary Gentry, Lerrin LaGrow, Joe Keough and Jim Crawford. Ask him whom he thinks is the best of the batch, and he says ability-wise, Harry Dalton, the Angels' executive vicep and general manager, plucked Winkles from the college ranks and made him one of his coaches early last year and then named him to succeed Rice last winter.

"He's learning all the time," says Dalton, "and overall I think he's doing a good job."

Unlike some managers, Winkles does not try to knock you down with his personality or project it over those of his players.

"Look at it this way," he says. "The San Diego club was sold the other day for $12 million, so the players must be worth that much. Nobody figures the manager is worth a sou. If Mr. (Gene) Autry wanted to sell this club, he'd get at least $12 million. It wouldn't make a nickel's worth of difference if I was with it or not."

Holt And Braun Let Minnesota Sweep Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Jim Holt slugged two home runs and Steve Braun added one in a 16-hit attack that carried the Minnesota Twins to a 13-9 victory over the Cleveland Indians and a sweep of their Wednesday doubleheader.

A double error by shortstop Frank Duffy enabled Larry Hise to score the tie-breaking run in the 15th inning as Minnesota defeated Cleveland 7-3 in the first game. The defeats extended Cleveland's losing streak to seven games.

Braun's three-run homer highlighted a six-run first inning in the second game for Minnesota. Holt hit a solo homer in the first inning and a three-run shot in the eighth, while the Twins scored four times.

It turned out that the Twins needed most of their runs because the Indians hit three homers—one Oscar Gamble's second of the game—in the bottom of the ninth when they scored four runs.

In the opener, Hise started the 15th inning with a walk and moved to second on a wild pitch. When Holt grounded to Duffy, the shortstop fumbled the ball and then threw wild, allowing Hise to score the deciding run. Minnesota added another run on Danny Thompson's single and two more on a double by Harmon Killebrew.

After Jesus Alou was walked to fill the bases, Watson singled home Stewart with the game-winning run.

The Astros tied the score 3-3 on Doug Rader's two-run homer in the seventh inning. Dick Ruthven was fined an automatic $50 when plate umpire Jerry Dale warned the Philadelphia pitcher about throwing too close to Wynn's head in the eighth.

Ticket Holders File Suit Aimed At Indy, USAC

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Two ticket holders for last week's rain-plagued Indianapolis 500-mile auto race filed a class action suit Wednesday seeking refunds and $100,000 punitive damages from the track.

The suit was filed in Marion County Superior Court here by attorney Paul G. Roland for Eugene Gallagher and Diana Speers, who alleged they were deprived of seeing the race because of "willful and oppressive acts of the defendants."

Named as defendants were Indianapolis Motor Speedway Corp. and the United States Auto Club.

The complaint alleged that when the race was postponed for the second time on May 29 it was announced on the public address system at the track that the race had been rescheduled for May 30 at 9 a.m. EST "subject to clear weather conditions."

The complaint said the defendants should have known that at the time the weather forecast was for rain and that the race should have been postponed until clear weather was forecast.

It also alleged the defendants failed to give ticket holders notice of the start of the race until 20 minutes before it actually started and that insufficient personnel were on duty at the track to permit ticket holders to get into the track in time to see the race. The race originally was scheduled Monday, May 28, but halted because of a crash on the first lap, then postponed because of rain. Rain again forced postponement Tuesday. The race finally was run late Wednesday, but stopped at 332.5 miles because of rain, and called officially completed.

Al Bloemker, public relations director for the Speedway, said it "is not Speedway policy to make refunds on tickets" and said the race has always been held as soon as weather conditions permit.

A spokesman for USAC said the club had no comment.

Police Link Slayings Along Interstate 57

CHICAGO (AP)—Police said Wednesday they have found physical evidence linking three slayings along Interstate 57 southwest of Chicago.

The nude body of Mrs. Betty Lou Harmon, 29, of suburban Darien was found Tuesday. The bodies of an engaged Chicago couple, Dorothy Cerny, 25, and James Schmidt, also 25, were found Sunday nine miles away.

All three persons apparently were killed Sunday night.

State police said a purse belonging to Miss Cerny was found in Mrs. Harmon's car.

Both the Harmon car and that in which Schmidt and Miss Cerny were traveling were found abandoned on Chicago's West Side.

The purse was the first definite link investigators have established between the Cerny-Schmidt slaying and the killing of Mrs. Harmon.

However, there were similarities in the slayings that immediately created suspicions that all three victims may have been killed by the same persons.

All three were killed with a shotgun and they were traveling in about the same area.

Furthermore, police have received reports of other menacing approaches along the same stretch of Interstate 57 Sunday.

Authorities said a Glen Ellyn couple, traveling with their three sleeping children, reported that three men tried to stop their car.

A Manteno woman also said she was menaced by three men who, she said, did stop her car. She told police that one of the men threatened her with a shotgun but that she was able to get back into her car and drive away unharmed.

Mrs. Harmon's killing was the fourth along Interstate 57 in the last month.

A truck driver from Frankfort was shot in the head and chest May 10 near Markham and in the same area as the other slayings.

Chicago police said they received a report that a man was seen Sunday leaving Mrs. Harmon's car where it was abandoned. The man was said to have been carrying a shotgun.

Police said a witness told them he saw the man enter a nearby apartment with the gun. Investigators searched the apartment Wednesday, but did not find a gun. They were searching for the man who lived there but would not identify him.

Big City Takes It All In Stride

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the most exciting moments in sports comes up Saturday when Secretariat shoots for horse racing's Triple Crown at Belmont Park—so where are all the banners, bands and carnival high jinks?

In the jargon of the track, there ain't any.

New York City takes it all in stride.

Three days before the band strikes up "East Side, West Side" and a bugle calls the top 3-year-old thoroughbreds to the post for the third and last jewel of the sport's mighty triple, there were no tents and queues parked at the gates of the picturesque course in suburban Elmont on Long Island.

A visitor just from Beirut or Bangkok wouldn't know the event was taking place unless he perused the second section of the newspapers.

This is in contrast to the atmosphere at Louisville and Baltimore, scenes of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, the first two legs of the Triple Crown.

For one day, these spots become Saturnalia.

New York just yawns.

The infielders at Churchill Downs, and Pimlico become masses of humanity, long-haired, sparsely clad young people.

Handyman Woes... Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG

Q. — I intend to put down resilient floor tiles on our attic floor. There is nothing there now except a subfloor. I have been told that I must first put down a more permanent floor in order to cement the tiles to it. Is this so and what is meant by a more permanent floor?

A. — Forget about the term "more permanent" floor. What is needed is an underlayment, which can be either hardboard or plywood. First make sure that all lengths of the subfloor are securely attached. In buying the hardboard or plywood, specify that you want the underlayment grade. It costs less than hardboard or plywood intended for use where it will be seen. You will find that it is easier to work with the 4 by 8 size rather than the 4 by 6. In nailing the underlayment to the subfloor, leave a tiny space — about one-eighth of an inch — at the joints.

Q. — I varnished the top of a coffee table. It came out very well, but not quite perfect. A friend suggested that I use pumice powder and oil to get a superfinish. I did what he told me. The finish came out fine. I mean to say, it was like glass when I ran my fingers over it. But I wasn't too happy about the fact that the pumice took the gloss off the varnish. Is there any way I can restore it? It doesn't have to be as glossy as it was originally, but I just don't like the present dull finish.

A. — Pumice is an abrasive and therefore naturally cuts down on the high gloss of a finishing material. What you have to do now is to polish the finish to give it a satiny look. One of several ways to do this is to polish the surface of the table with rottenstone and oil.

Do a small area at a time, pouring a little oil on the wood, then sprinkling some rottenstone powder into the oil. Using a clean cloth, preferably something made of felt, rub the area vigorously. Then move on to the next area and repeat the procedure. When all parts of the top have been done this way, repeat the rubbing over the entire surface. The harder and longer you rub, the more you will be satisfied with the results.

Q. — The sink in our basement backs up whenever there is some kind of stoppage in the plumbing line. Why does it only happen there and not in any of the upstairs sinks?

A. — Because the basement sink is the lowest point in the line.

Anyone who works with wood or glue or both knows the value of clamps.

While contact cement and other fast-setting adhesives have reduced the usage of clamps to some extent, most bonding projects in wood-working still require clamps.

There is a wide variety of clamps. The most common — that with which most of us are familiar — is the C clamp, so-called because its frame, including the jaws, is shaped roughly like the letter C. The sizes and variations of C clamps are almost endless, literally running into the hundreds. Because most of these clamps are made of metal, pieces of wood should be inserted between each jaw and the work to prevent damage to the surfaces.

Nearly all hardware stores and lumber yards carry pipe or bar clamps. Actually, when you purchase a pipe clamp, you have bought only part of the equipment. To make it work, you must also buy a piece of pipe that fits into holes in both ends of the clamp. A half-inch clamp, for instance, requires a half-inch piece of pipe, so always buy the clamp first. There is a crank handle at the end of one part of the clamp that is turned to tighten or loosen it.

A pipe clamp is ideal for use on large surfaces. If you were making a big rectangular table top made up of several long pieces of wood that had to be glued together, a pipe clamp would span the surface and hold the lengths of wood in place until the adhesive had dried. The longer the pipe, the larger the area that can be handled by the clamp.

Professional woodworkers make frequent use of what are called toolmakers' clamps or hand screws, made of two wooden jaws and two adjusting screws. By manipulating one or both of the screws, the jaws can be made parallel or tilted at any desired angle. Since the jaws of this type of clamp are made of hardwood, one must be careful to use a soft pad between the jaws and any softwood being worked on.

With all kinds of clamps, there is an important principle.

Tighten them only moderately. Tightening them too much will cause the work to twist or otherwise get out of line, ruining the gluing job.

The many varieties of clamps include some which are rely straps or bands. And, of course, a vise is a form of clamp, too, except that it is stationary, while those discussed here are portable.

NEW BERLIN GIRL PLAYING FLUTE IN MUNY OPERA

NEW BERLIN—Donna Smith, who will be a junior this fall at New Berlin High School, will be playing the flute in the upcoming "Once Upon A Mattress," the first show of the season presented by the Springfield Municipal Opera.

Donna Smith

The show will be staged June 8 through 10 and 13 through 17, starting at 8:30 each night at the lakeside stage on East Lake Shore Drive.

Donna is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald S. Smith of New Berlin and the granddaughter of Russell H. Smith of Jacksonville.

A camel's hump is mostly fat. Bands of strong tissue hold pads of fat together, forming the hump above the backbone, the World Book Encyclopedia explains. The hump of a healthy camel may weigh more than 80 pounds.

Receive Eagle Awards

The quiet oak grove at Lake Jacksonville was the setting for a recent three day troop camp-out, family potluck dinner, and Court of Honor recognizing those members of Troop 113 who have made progress during the past few months. Troop 113, sponsored by the South Jacksonville PTA, is over thirty years old, and has origins back to 1928 when Troop 9 was chartered. Mr. John C. Waltrip, a Wood Badge Instructor, has been Scoutmaster since 1961.

After the invocation by Eagle Scout David Sabatini and the supper hour (featuring cherry pies baked by the boys in dutch ovens), Assistant Scoutmaster Ken Wilkinson, dressed in authentic Indian regalia, gave an opening ceremony by offering his peace pipe to the four winds and the forces of nature which included fire from the sky. After Scoutmaster John Waltrip tripped a string causing a prepared council fire to burst into flame, the Roadrunner Patrol advanced the American and Troop flags. Mr. Loren Simmermaker, 1972 Chairman, introduced the guests, the Troop Committee, and the Assistant Scoutmasters. Institutional Representative Robert Sheehan next presented the Lincoln Ranger Award to Mike Elliot; the troop has 21 Lincoln Rangers, a group of scouts dedicated to service and promotion of camping and the scouting spirit.

Advancement Chairman Lyman Riegel presented a scout pocket patch to Archie Hunter, the newest of sixteen new troop members, and Tenderfoot Progress Awards to the following boys: Gary Wilkinson, Michael Benz, Paul Shafer, Brad Garner, Greg Perrine, Tim Evans and Robert Reddish. Second class progress awards went to Donnie Stubblefield, Greg Perrine, Paul Shafer, Roger Dunham and Brad Garner. First class awards went to Paul Riegel and Mike Wilkinson. Merit badges were distributed to eight boys including some of the Tenderfoot scouts. Boys unable to be present were recognized for their achievements by having their names read from the Court of Honor Program.

ROODHOUSE MEN COMPLETE POLICE TRAINING COURSE

ROODHOUSE — Fred Christian and William Hinegardner, members of the local police department, recently completed and graduated from a Police Training course at Carlinville. The course was sponsored by the West Central Illinois Law Enforcement Commission. Some subjects covered were Duties and Responsibilities; Ethics in Law Enforcement; First Aid; Communications with Public; Police Patrol and Procedures; Illinois Criminal Code; Behaviour of Abnormal People; Police and Minority Groups; Narcotics; etc.

BUY SAVINGS BONDS

The Star Progress Award was presented to Steve Madsen, Darrell Simmermaker, David Lyons and Mike Elliot after a simple ceremony conducted by the advancement chairman. Each boy was given a miniature badge to pin on his mother. His badge was pinned on by his father or the scoutmaster.

Russell Rawlings, one of the three Silver Beaver holders present, gave an address to Darrell Simmermaker and David Taylor who were awarded the Life Progress Awards.

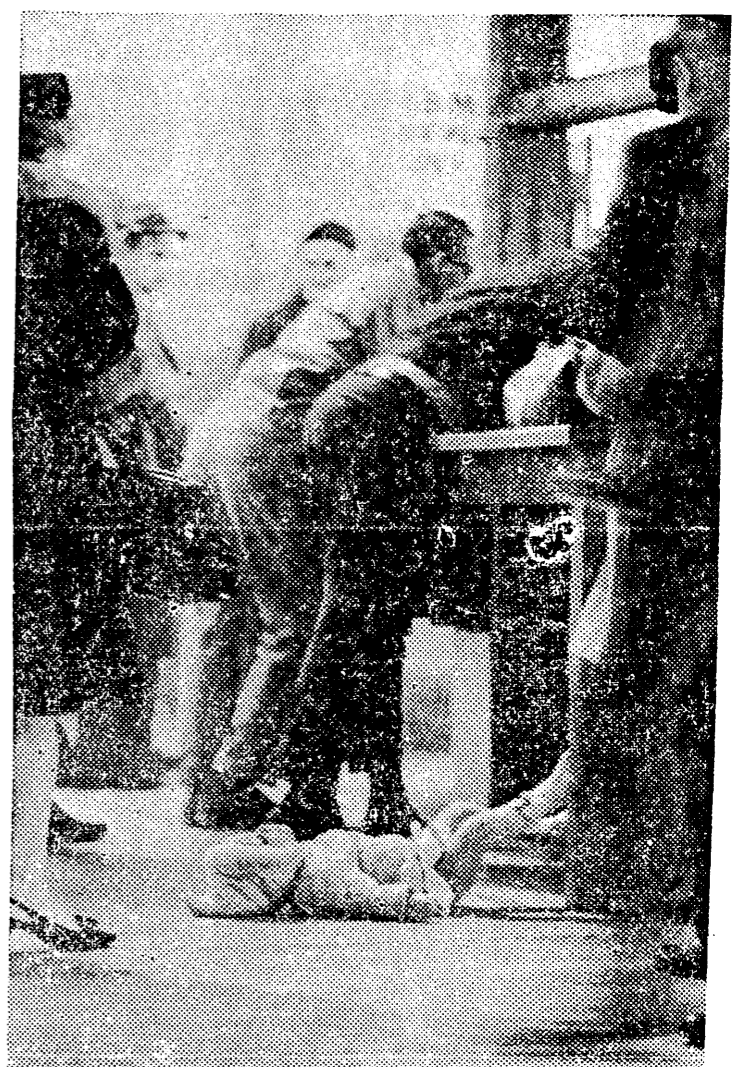

The highlight of the evening was the award of the highest badge in scouting to four young men who earned the Eagle. Each youth pinned a small Eagle emblem upon his mother as a symbol of her aid in getting him that far along the road of scouting. The fathers then pinned the multicolored ribbon and silver eagle on to the scouts' shirts. The four recipients were David Sabatini, Gary Simmermaker, David Taylor and Darrell Simmermaker. After the Eagle ceremony, the new Eagles surprised Scoutmaster Waltrip by giving him an engraved plaque in the shape of the scout symbol which bore the names of the 28 Eagles who had gained that rank since he became the leader of Troop 113.

The Roadrunner Patrol retired the colors after a benediction by Eagle Scout David Taylor. The closing was a solemn moment as lights focused on an Indian chief atop a twenty foot signal tower who gave his blessings and brought the 1973 Court of Honor to a finish.

Ken Wilkinson will be engaged in Wood Badge training this summer. John Waltrip will lead the Abraham Lincoln Council scout troop to Jamboree West in Idaho. The troop members are now in training to represent this area at the national event.

Yule Latip A.F.S. student and scout from the Philippines was a special guest of Mr. and Mrs. Louis G. Taylor and family.

SOME PEOPLE may be able to fall asleep standing up, or so they say. But Cynthia Streker is having none of that. Waiting out with her mother a long, long line for new auto license plates, Cynthia, of Kansas City, Kan., took the opportunity and the handiest place—the floor—for a nap.

Stamps In The News

By SYD KRONISH
AP Newsfeatures
Papua-New Guinea can be called a picturesque panorama of people, places and promise. Its population of 2½ million consists of many races and creeds speaking some 700 languages.

That's why its new definitive issue of six stamps is called "Papua New Guinea Panorama."

The 1 cent hails the Milne Bay District, which is 7,820 square miles. The design shows a wood carver from the Trobriand Islands making a canoe prow. The 7 cents is a tribute to the south coast of Papua, east and west of its capital, Port Moresby. Depicted is a coastal village built on traditional piles over water.

The 9 cents, for the East New Britain District, features a view of the Baining people at a ceremonial dance. The 15 cents honors the Chimbu District, 2,260 square miles of high country. It shows Mount Eilmbari and a typical native round house. The design is found in woven cane chest bands worn there.

The 25 cent value illustrates a council house typical of the East Sepik District. The 40 cent, for the Madang District, which extends along the northern coast, pictures some of the waterways typical of the district and the design has been adapted from a finely carved black palm section of a pig arrow.

Three unique Bicentennial cachet covers will commemorate this year's Independence Day, July 4. They will be issued in a limited edition by the International Stamp Collectors Society.

One cover will show Independence Hall in Philadelphia, site of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Another will have the Liberty Bell superimposed on the Declaration paper. The third cover will carry a reproduction of the famous painting showing the signing ceremony.

Each cover will bear three stamps depicting three signers of the Declaration — Washington, Jefferson and Franklin. They will be postmarked July 4 at Philadelphia.

The complete set of three covers is available for $3.50 from the International Stamp Collectors Society (Bicentennial Covers Section), P.O. Box 48806, Los Angeles, Calif. 90048.

Israel honors the 9th Maccabiah Games with a new stamp featuring a stylized Star of David composed of intersecting elements, all of which seem to be in movement with a figure "9" suggested within the design. The "All-Jewish" Olympics was first held in 1932 in what was then Palestine. The second was held in the clouded year of 1936. The third and all the rest have taken place in Israel, beginning in 1950, reports the Israel Philatelic Agency in America.

The stamps are available at your local stamp dealer.

Inflation has upped the prices of U.S. stamps considerably.

More than 2,000 price increases are noted in the new 1973 edition of H. E. Harris' "Top Buying Prices." Over 100 new price additions are included in this broad listing for stamps of the U.S., Canada, Newfoundland, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Confederate States and the Canal Zone. Among the U.S. items are plate blocks, booklet panes, zip code blocks and coil line pairs.

"Top Buying Prices" may be obtained by sending 25 cents to H. E. Harris & Co., Dept. TBP-59, Boston, Mass. 02117.

Speaking of prices, a recent general auction by H. R. Harmer, Inc., of New York brought $228,811. The prices ran above expectations, resulting in sales 28 per cent over the auctioneers' prior predictions.

Fairly's Homer In 11th Inning Tops Braves 7-6

MONTREAL (AP) — Ron Fairly belted a two-out home run in the 11th inning, powering the Montreal Expos to a 7-6 victory over the Atlanta Braves Tuesday night.

Fairly's shot over the right field fence, his eighth of the year, made a winner of Mike Marshall, 6-4. The loser was Ron Schuler, 1-2.

The Braves tied the game 6-5 with single runs in the seventh and eighth, capitalizing on infield errors by the Expos.

Atlanta had taken a 3-0 lead off Bill Stoneman in the second inning on run-producing infield outs by Dave Johnson and Ralph Garr and an RBI single by Chuck Goggin.

Business — Market Wrapup

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Incongruous as it may seem, the devaluation of the dollar appears to be viewed by some currency traders as evidence that it could be devalued again.

This, at any rate, is one of the explanations offered by puzzled monetary authorities, who feel the dollar is now realistically priced but who find their views contradicted by a falling market.

While most Americans might have only a vague feeling of insecurity because of the dollar's decline, those who travel to Europe this summer will encounter the specific consequences in the form of higher bills everywhere.

The oddity of why the value of American currency should continue to slide, relative to the currency of most of its trading partners, is reasoned this way by some bankers:

Unique among world currencies, the dollar held to its official value throughout the post-World War II period, and thus was widely desired for its stability.

This view continued to be held even when the United States developed a chronic imbalance in its international payments, traditionally viewed as evidence of an overpriced currency. The imbalance, it was hoped, would be corrected.

But then the dollar met the fate of other important currencies: it devalued, and it did so twice. This removed the assurance. No longer could you be certain of the dollar's value either.

Most international bankers now believe the devalued dollar is priced right or perhaps even less than its worth. But that is no longer a promise; the dollar is afloat, drifting with the currents.

In a strictly banking sense, the dollar isn't nearly so suspect as it is in the market place, where psychology—which involves fears and rumors as well as facts—holds sway.

Add to the fears held by many European and American businessmen, and bankers too, the feeling that the U.S. economy itself is adrift, despite continued assurances from Washington that things are getting better all the time.

And then, in addition to those worries, pile on the burden of Watergate, which is viewed by some Americans and Europeans as lessening the President's ability to negotiate trade agreements, work toward international monetary stability and control domestic inflation.

And while the dollar falls, the price of gold soars. Are the two prices like weights on an apothecary's balance? To an extent. When people fear paper currencies they traditionally seek gold or diamonds or some such.

Flextime Movement Comes To America

By ROZ LISTON
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Flextime, a movement begun in West Germany seven years ago to free workers from fixed hours, has come to America after sweeping across the European community.

More than a million Europeans in 5,000 companies and government organizations now determine their own starting and quitting times within a broad range of available hours. The key for implementing the concept of variable hours lies in the Flextime system, a personal time totalizer which records the net hours worked by each employee on a daily, weekly or monthly basis.

Each employee carries his own "key" resembling a plastic badge, which is inserted into a time-recording system when the work period begins and removed at the end. He can arrange his starting and quitting hours with his employer, often without any supervision.

Announces U.S. Entry

Flextime Corp., a subsidiary of Germany's Hengstler Kg, pioneer of the Flextime program, recently announced its entry into the U.S. market. Headquartered in New York, the company plans to hire between 150 and 200 employees to help American firms convert to a freer work-style.

"The Flextime system is only a small part of the whole package," said Bernhard Kessler, president. His team of American consultants will spend 80 per cent of their time working with top management, supervisors and employees to set up flexible hours at the beginning and end of each day, a "core time" period when all personnel must be on the job because of peak loads and the

SOYBEAN FUTURES DECLINE LIMIT

CHICAGO (AP) — Commodity futures came under heavy selling pressure again on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday, largely because of improved weather conditions and concern over possible government controls.

Soybean futures fell the limit of 40 cents a bushel and soybean meal was down $15 a ton. Corn fell the 10 cent limit and wheat 9 cents, while oats were down 5 cents. Soybean oil eased around 60 points. Iced broilers were down 1 cent in rather light trade.

There were some unfirmed trade reports on the floor Tuesday that some type of controls were being considered by the Nixon administration. It was not known whether they would be new controls or strengthening of existing controls.

Either way, the trade figured, commodity futures could be affected. Selling Tuesday resulted in a 21 cent drop in new crop soybeans and 7 cents in wheat. This opening, soybeans were down the limit and wheat near so. Some recovery followed.

Some improvement in the weather was in the offing and could extend four or five days in the Midwest. This would give farmers a badly needed and extended chance to get into the fields where their work has been reported some 30 to 40 per cent behind schedule.

After about an hour, soybeans were 3 to 25 cents a bushel lower, July 11.55; wheat was 5 1/2 to 7 1/2 lower, July 2.83 1/2; corn was 1 1/4 to 5 lower, July 2.38 and oats were 3/4 to 1 lower, July (new) 1.10.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices were back down on the minus side Wednesday after a brief technical rally that found little positive news to turn the rally onto the trend for which Wall Street has been praying.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed down 2.63 at 998.18, after having been up more than four points in early trading. It had closed Tuesday almost 45 points along with the market in recent trading sessions.

Declining Big Board issues outpaced advances 780 to 609 in a light 13.08 million volume.

The analysts said the brief rally, which came early Tuesday as the Dow Jones was slipping toward the 800 mark, may have been helped along by investors who interpreted news out of Washington to mean the administration was about to take new steps against inflation. Melvin R. Laird, the president's new domestic policy advisor, said he would be making some recommendations to Nixon on wage-price controls.

The New York Stock Exchange broad-based index of some 1,500 common shares closed down 0.17 at 54.91. The American Stock Exchange price-change index was down 0.01 at 22.40. Declining issues on the Amex outpaced advances 420 to 355 in light trading.

CBS, down 2 at 34 1/4, was the Big Board volume leader in heavy block trades.

The Amex leader was Braccon, Ltd., down 1 1/4 at 17 1/4, as a 499,500-issue block traded at 17 1/4, down 1 1/4.

In Over-the-Counter trading, the NASDAQ composite index closed down .01 at 101.70.

Former Baseball Player Charged With Extortion

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former major league baseball player Jerry Priddy was charged Wednesday with extortion and accused of demanding $250,000 in exchange for the location of bombs allegedly placed on a luxury liner with more than 850 persons aboard.

Two tiny packages were found on the ship, the Island Princess, as it sailed off Mexico, but were thrown overboard without being opened. "We'll never know what they contained," a spokesman for the line said.

Dollar Improves Strongly

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar improved strongly Wednesday on European money markets.

The price of gold, closely tied to the dollar's health in recent market fluctuations, sagged in the bullion markets.

Dealers said the American currency's renewed strength was due in large measure to advance reports from Washington that President Nixon was moving to tighten up his administration's economic policies.

Melvin R. Laird, Nixon's new domestic policy chief, followed up those reports later Wednesday by disclosing in Washington that Nixon plans stronger moves against inflation and in defense of the dollar.

But some dealers in Europe attributed the dollar's recovery to profit-taking by speculators after almost a week of steady decline. They expected the dollar to start down again later in the week.

The dollar climbed from Tokyo to Paris and, in reverse reaction, gold closed at $120.50 an ounce in London, down from Tuesday's record high of $127.25. The price of gold closed at $122 an ounce in Zurich, a drop of $4 an ounce in the Swiss center. Since March 1, the dollar has fallen by 8.2 percent against the West German mark, by 6 percent in relation to the French franc, 3.9 percent against the Dutch guilder and 2.9 percent against the Swiss franc, but only one percent against the Japanese yen.

The ship continued toward its destination, Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, and after a thorough search the ship's captain said he was satisfied no bombs were aboard.

Priddy, 53, was arrested after he picked up a package at the point specified by the extortionist in telephone calls to the ship's home office here, the FBI said. The location was in suburban Burbank near an advertising firm which Priddy heads.

A spokesman for the ship company said the package contained pieces of paper instead of money because the amount demanded could not be raised quickly.

The FBI said seven calls were made Tuesday to Princess Cruises demanding $250,000 ransom to tell where four bombs were planted on one of two luxury liners operated by the firm. Later the caller said the bombs were on the 20,000-ton Island Princess, which was about 200 miles south of San Diego on a seven-day pleasure cruise, the FBI said.

Playboy Towers Men's Room Murder Scene

CHICAGO (AP)—Police were looking Wednesday for two men who brazenly robbed and fatally shot an insurance executive in a men's room at the Playboy Towers, a Gold Coast hotel.

David Hill, 34, an executive of the American Home Assurance Co., died late Tuesday after he was shot three times trying to flee from the men who robbed and stripped him in a lower level washroom.

The Playboy Towers, on Walton street opposite the Drake Hotel, formerly was the Knickerbocker Hotel.

Police said Hill and three business associates were in the bar when Hill excused himself to go to the washroom.

Minutes later, he staggered back into the room, stripped except for his socks, and fell to the floor. A woman at the bar said she heard the victim say, "They got me."

Police said a witness to the shooting walked into the washroom and startled the two robbers. Hill ran for the door. The witness, who was not identified, told police the gunmen shoved him aside and chased Hill. They fired three shots.

Police said two bullets apparently ricocheted off walls and struck Hill. The killers eluded a Playboy security guard and escaped through a side entrance of the building.

Hill's clothing was found piled in the washroom. His wallet was empty but it was not determined how much money was stolen.

Hill was recently remarried. He has one child from his former marriage.

A spokesman for the Playboy Towers said the hotel did not plan additional security. "We have always had security. But how do you prevent something like this? Do you put armed guards in the lavatory of every hotel in town?"

Police said there were two other recent hotel robberies in Chicago which the victims were forced to disrobe.

The two packages, wrapped in brown paper and about the size of cigarette packages, were found in the engine room and on the bridge and quickly thrown overboard, the spokesman for the line said.

Priddy was a second baseman for the Detroit Tigers and New York Yankees between 1941 and 1953. At the family's expensive North Hollywood home, Priddy's son said his father once played in 378 consecutive major league games.

"We're a little stunned by the whole thing," the son said. "But I think it's a little premature to be talking about all this. I can say that his business was in good shape financially, but that's all I care to comment about now."

Agnew Offers His Counseling To Governors

STATELINE, Nev. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew told the nation's governors on Wednesday to consider him available for counseling.

He added: "In any other way I can be helpful, I want to be." Agnew, whose appearance at the National Governors Conference was announced at the last minute, said:

"I feel it is very important that there be someone at the executive level in Washington who has been through these crucial problems you face day in and day out in state government," added Agnew, former governor of Maryland.

The governors praised Agnew's reassurances. "I think the President is going to be more amenable to our suggestions in the future," Arkansas Gov. Dale Bumpers said.

The conference endorsed only one of Nixon's special revenue sharing programs, however — the relatively uncontroversial law enforcement project — and denounced the President's manpower training proposal as bypassing the states.

A stronger anti-revenue sharing resolution proposed by Bumpers failed to pass because of the conference rule requiring three-fourths agreement to consider resolutions not reported out by the executive committee. Bumpers' effort to suspend the rules and consider urging Congress to continue displacing present programs with special revenue sharing was favored 24-12 — all Democrats for and all Republicans against — which was short of the necessary margin.

Another Bumpers resolution, which had been adopted in similar form at the earlier Democratic Governors' Caucus, demanding reimposition of wage and price controls, also got a 2-1 vote but fell short of the required three-fourths.

The resolutions were adopted after Caspar Weinberger, secretary of health, education and welfare; James T. Lynn, secretary of housing and urban development; and Kenneth R. Cole Jr., executive director of the White House's Domestic Council, successively told the governors they had nothing to fear from Nixon's budget proposals.

Sloan

(Continued From Page One) Watergate burglary, he said, Magruder told him the amount would have to be scaled down when investigators started questioning.

He was asked why he didn't question a disbursement of $350,000 to Gordon Strachan, an assistant to White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman. That money and the sums that went to Liddy, Sloan said, were part of $1,777,000 cash funds Sloan gave to various people with authorization from higher officials.

"I think my curiosity had really run out at that point in time," said Sloan.

He said the meeting with Ehrlichman was in the White House on July 23, five weeks after five of Liddy's co-conspirators were arrested in the Democratic Party headquarters in the Watergate office building.

"I believe he interpreted my being there as personal fear," Sloan told the senators. "He indicated to me that I had a special relationship to the White House. If I needed help in getting a lawyer, he'd be glad to do that, but 'don't tell me any of the details. I don't want to know. My position would have to be, until after the election, that I would have to take executive privilege.'"

Executive privilege normally prevents disclosure of confidential conversations between the President and his staff. Ehrlichman was Nixon's domestic adviser until his resignation April 30.

Sloan testified that he had become concerned earlier at the massive cash disbursements, and that he took up the matter with Maurice Stans, former secretary of commerce who headed fund-raising for the reelection campaign.

He quoted Stans as saying he would check into Magruder's authority to approve such disbursements and later that he had conferred with Mitchell and confirmed Magruder had such authority.

As for the purpose for which Liddy needed the money, Sloan said, Stans told him: "I do not want to know and you do not want to know."

Mr. Shirkey was the last surviving member of his immediate family.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p.m. at the Williamson Funeral Home. Burial will be in Arcadia cemetery.

Hunt Tells Of Planning Heist Of Psychiatrist

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt testified in secret before a county grand jury on Wednesday about the plans he made for the burglary of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Tight secrecy surrounded the hearings, but Hunt was believed to be elaborating on details he already has described to the Watergate grand jury in Washington.

The grand jurors here skipped their morning coffee break rather than interrupt Hunt's testimony, which was reportedly aimed at establishing who in the White House gave orders to get psychiatric records of the former Pentagon papers defendant.

A smiling Hunt and two other Watergate conspirators, Bernard Barker and Eugenio Martinez, were whisked into the Criminal Courts Building through a side entrance in three unmarked cars driven by federal marshals.

The three men have been housed in the county jail in the Hall of Justice since they arrived from a federal prison at Danbury, Conn.

Hunt, Barker and the Cubans have been granted immunity from prosecution for their role in the burglary, and it was understood they would be asked to name those who gave the orders. They also were expected to shed light on the question of whether any of Ellsberg's psychiatric records were taken or photographed during the entry.

Another matter expected to be probed is the Central Intelligence Agency's part in supplying disguises, false identification and secret cameras for the break-in. Marine Commandant Robert Cushman has testified that he, as deputy director of the CIA, gave Hunt assistance at the request of former presidential adviser John D. Ehrlichman.

Ehrlichman has said he doesn't remember asking for such aid.

Dist. Atty. Joseph Bush confirmed Wednesday that Ehrlichman is scheduled to testify on Friday and said he has not discussed with Ehrlichman any possibility of granting him immunity from prosecution.

Pentagon papers trial charges against Ellsberg and Anthony Russo were dismissed May 11 because of government misconduct including the break-in. The Justice Department announced in Washington on Wednesday that it would not appeal the dismissal of the charges.

PENTAGON DECIDES AGAINST F111S

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon Wednesday decided against building any more of the controversial F111 fighter-bombers.

Deputy Secretary of Defense William P. Clements notified Congress he has decided to end production of the F111, once known as the TFX, when the current run is completed late next year.

By that time, the Air Force will have 543 F111s, including bombers and fighter bombers.

Fewer crops mean higher prices for feed which, in turn, mean higher prices for livestock.

They say the price of feed accounts for 75 per cent of the cost of producing meat, milk and eggs.

Up Minimum Salary $300 Effective '74

Full-time clergymen serving local congregations in 1974 will be paid a $7,800 minimum salary, up from $7,500 effective in 1973, according to action by United Methodist Central Illinois Annual Conference at MacMurray College, Jacksonville.

Full-time lay pastors will be paid a minimum of $7,000, an increase of $300 over the 1973 minimum of $6,700.

In a major address to the conference, the Rev. Michael McIntyre, native of Pekin and spokesman for the church's World Peace Division in Washington, D.C., said "marginalization, militarism, and malnutrition" are three enemies of world peace.

Calling the U.S. military establishment the largest institutional complex within the U.S. government, Mr. McIntyre contended "if we put as much money into peace as we do in militarization, we would have a peaceful planet."

"Militarization," he said, "has become a system of belief. It is a religion. It has its high priests, its heresy is amnesty, but it is a false god, and Christians, of all people, ought to be prepared to name the false gods."

U.S. At Fault

World malnutrition, according to the church's peace leader, is partly the fault of U.S. consumption, which is causing a "protein gap" between developed and under-developed nations.

The food gap, he added, is producing generations of "dull, slow, and marginal human beings — all building up to the 'miserable bomb.'"

Mr. McIntyre urged Central Illinois United Methodists to consider their search for peace and full human development as a "sacramental act and an acceptable subject for worship."

Dr. Jack North of Champaign, in the traditional memorial ser-

Planting

Soybean planting was 43 per cent complete on June 3, compared to 72 per cent last year. Soybeans — which take about 90 days to mature compared to 120 days for corn — can be planted until the middle of June, although some farmers claim the yield decreases if the crop is planted after June 10.

One problem with planting soybeans on areas prepared for cotton was that some of the land already had been treated with herbicides, needed for cotton, but harmful to soybeans.

A report prepared by a commodities firm and circulated at the Chicago Board of Trade on Tuesday said that the government's goal of more than six million bushels of corn this year may not be reached because much farm land is in wet condition and has not been planted.

The report spurred the buying of wheat, oat and corn futures by dealers who expect the price to rise because supplies will be low.

Oren Lee Staley, president of the National Farmers Organization, predicted that there would be less than five million bushels of corn harvested this year, but said "soybean acreage will skyrocket."

Officials in Illinois expressed hope that farmers would be able to catch up with planting, but conceded they're behind schedule because of spring flooding. The state is the nation's leading soybean producer, and, along with Iowa and Indiana, provides half the country's corn crop.

Some farmers estimated they were already 30 to 40 per cent behind schedule in their planting and said that for every day's delay after the first of June, they lose one bushel of corn per acre.

"If the rain continues for the next week or two it could be critical," said Neil Lochmiller, a statistician for the Illinois Crop Reporting Service. "But they (the farmers) can get soybeans and corn in pretty quick and with 10 days or two weeks of pretty good weather, farmers can still get all their crops in."

Lochmiller said that as of Monday, 80 per cent of the Illinois corn crop had been planted, compared to 96 per cent last year. Only 37 per cent of the soybean crop had been planted in Illinois by June 4, compared to 84 per cent at the same time last year.

The Iowa Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said that only 90 per cent of the corn crop has been planted so far this year, compared to 100 per cent last year, and only about 10 per cent of the soybean crop is in, compared to 45 per cent last year.

Farmers themselves said fewer crops mean higher prices for feed which, in turn, mean higher prices for livestock.

They say the price of feed accounts for 75 per cent of the cost of producing meat, milk and eggs.

Refreshments were served by Dan Bahaan, Jeff, Lori and Larry Gain.

Dedicate New Facilities At Roodhouse

ROODHOUSE — A dedication of the new kitchen, including new facilities installed in the enlarged area, was held at the local Christian Church Wednesday night with 75 members and guests in attendance. The services were held following the memorial gift made by Miss Ardath Short for the late Margaret Jessamine Short, her mother, and Margaret Ophelia Moore, her grandmother, life-long members of the local church with Mrs. Short able to be very active in the church.

A lovely flower centerpiece for the head table was provided by Mrs. Cora Stuart, city, also the daughter of Mrs. Moore.

Invocation preceding the pot-luck supper was offered by Rev. Arnold DeZutter of the United Methodist Church, Chairman for the evening, Lloyd Coffman, asked all guests to stand for recognition. Rev. Harold Patterson, administrator of Barton Stone (Christian) Home in Jacksonville introduced the first speaker of the evening. Mrs. Bertha Wyker, who served in the missionary field, at one time in China. Mrs. Wyker spoke of her life as a missionary and of her life with those who reside in the Christian Home in cottages in connection with home. Speaking next was Mrs. Ruby Chen a native of China, whose father was a Presbyterian minister. She is now residing in one of the cottages. Mrs. Chen compared her home country with that of the United States and spoke at length of the many customs in China. She taught those in the audience to speak some Chinese.

4 are Honored
During the program, Rev. Mike Brandenburger presented gifts to four men who had contributed so many work-hours in the kitchen and other parts of the church recently. Receiving gifts were Russell Hutton, Howard Whitney, Orville L. Ferguson, Jr. and Ray Ferguson. Thanks were also extended to those who had contributed less time but were much appreciated.

The meeting was closed with prayer offered by Rev. Wm. P. Belko, minister of the White Hall Christian Church.

Mrs. G.S. Case has as her guest, her sister, Mrs. A. J. Benner, Clayton, Mo.

JUSTICE ON THE CUFF

LONDON (AP) — A project has been inaugurated for people who cannot afford to take small claims to court. A special court has been established by the Westminster Law Society Committee to deal with complaints from consumers who feel they've had a raw deal.

A spokesman for the committee said more people now will be afforded the opportunity to bring their complaints to court without incurring huge expenses. Only an initial fee of $12 will be required to cover legal costs.

SOLID OAK

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) — Massive fossilized tree trunks, believed to be oaks which grew 300 million years ago, have been found in a deep coal mine. Dr. Friedrich Schmidt-Bleek, a chemistry professor at the University of Tennessee, said the petrified trunks weigh six tons and are about 45 inches in diameter.

"The amazing thing to me is that these trees were found in an upright formation," he said. Schmidt-Bleek said the well-preserved bark on the fossilized trunks suggests the trees may have been oaks.

YOUR BIRTHDAY AND HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, JUNE 7—Born today, you are one of those persons who is better at planning than at executing plans, better at conceiving an idea than at implementing it, and better at beginning a project than at completing it. You would do well to take a partner in business or profession very early in the game; otherwise, you may find that you lose considerable time—years perhaps—in an effort to do everything yourself. You possess an attractive personality and should have no trouble drawing to you one who is knowledgeable, trustworthy, and fully capable of working to your advantage.

Although you have a great deal of mechanical ability and are quite able to work successfully with your hands, you should find your real niche in a career requiring mental effort. You are intellectually prepared to meet almost any problem head on—even those which others have deemed too difficult to be so loved by any but the experts—and are happier working with your head and leaving the manual labor to others.

On the other hand, when it comes to activities on the home front, nothing suits you better than to get busy with hammer and nails, rake and hoe, or what-have-you, in the interests of making your own personal surroundings more secure, more beautiful, more livable. Within the domestic circle, you prefer to leave the mental pursuits to others while you busy yourself with labors less demanding of you mentally.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Friday, June 8

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)—Take care that outside interests don't interfere with your plans for making this an important day for the entire family. Afternoon hours bring surprises.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)—Vary your activities this morning. Investigate the background of one who has offered his services; you may find your good judgment affirmed.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)—A disturbing event of the morning may make it difficult for you to keep to afternoon and evening schedules. Make every effort to do so, however.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)—Take your time this morning. There is little in the way of your moving forward professionally—so long as you think things through carefully.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)—Moderation in all things is required today of the Libra who plans to make gains of an exceptional kind late in the day. Move ahead slowly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)—Working in or around the home will bring you benefits you don't expect, especially if you can take some time off from other duties to do at-home work justice.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)—Pay attention to the suggestions of others where your own advancement is concerned. You may have been going about things from the wrong end.

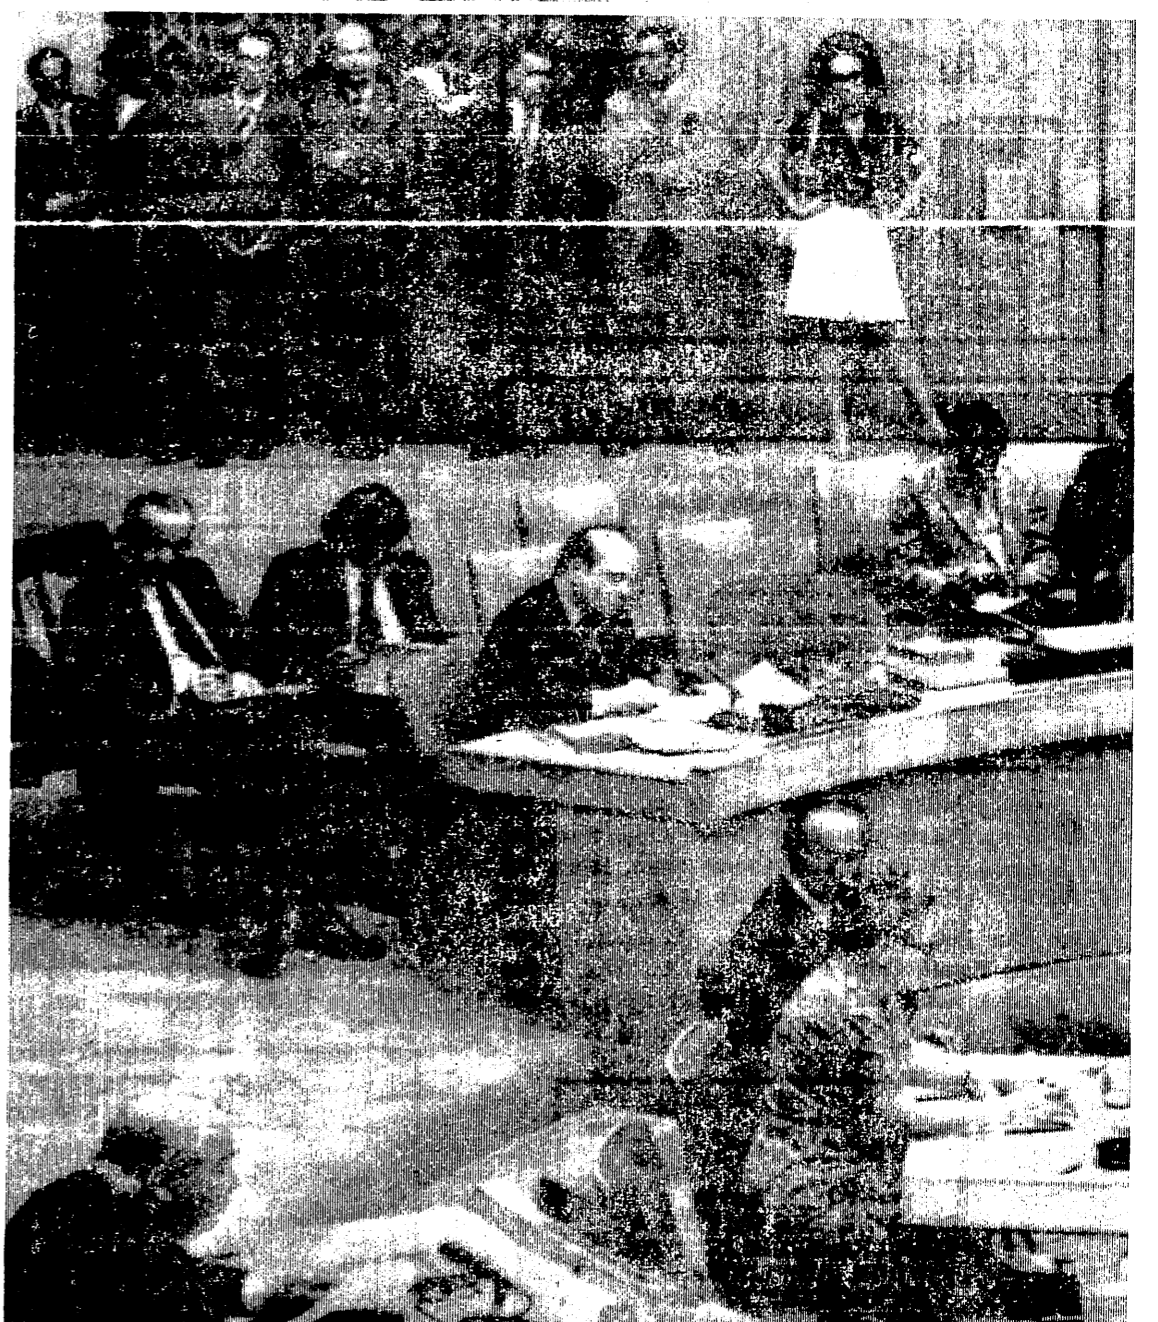

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)—Affairs of the elderly may need your attention desperately this afternoon. Whatever else you do—or don't do—be sure to repay a favor.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)—A question of artistry is decided by one who can speak in your favor. Do what you can to put yourself in a good light before the last word is spoken.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)—Although relatives and close friends may not agree with you at the moment, if you lean to your own course of action you will gain supporters in the end.

WASHINGTON: President Nixon, with his arm around Gen. Alexander Haig, enters the White House with Gen. Haig and Melvin R. Laird Wednesday following a stroll in the Rose Garden. Nixon announced that Melvin Laird would return to the administration as his Chief Domestic Adviser and that Gen. Alexander Haig would retire from the Army to be a Presidential Assistant. (UPI Photo)

UNITED NATIONS: Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohamed Hassan el-Zayyat (R) asks the Security Council Wednesday for immediate action to bring about the withdrawal of Israeli forces from all Arab territory occupied in the June 1967 war. Listening on the other side of the aisle is Yosef Tekoah, Israeli Ambassador to the U.N. In background with hands on hips is Mrs. Lois Evans, an adviser to the U.S. delegation. (UPI Photo)

ARIES (March 21-April 19)—Think before you deliver your self of an opinion where another's creative efforts are concerned. You may not be in a position to be critical.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)—A close relative inclined to argue can make this an especially nerve-racking day for you. Make an effort to compromise on minor matters.

Impending Sale Of F4 Phantoms To Saudi Arabia Causing Concern

WASHINGTON (AP) — The impending sale of perhaps two dozen F4 Phantom jets to Saudi Arabia appears to be causing concern in Congress as well as in Israel.

Joseph Sisco, the State Department's chief Middle East expert, will appear before a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee Wednesday to explain what the chairman considers

GOODRICH EMPLOYEES RETURN TO WORK

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—United Rubber Workers were returning to work at B.F. Goodrich Co. plants in Ohio and Indiana today as the URW negotiators refocused on the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

URW President Peter Bommarito said the URW wants to achieve fringe-benefit increases similar to those in the tentative Goodrich settlement.

Goodyear has declined to comment on the move. Union leaders said they would not strike if Goodyear spurned the request but that worker morale would be affected.

The Goodrich agreement has now been ratified by three of the seven URW locals around the country. Scheduled to vote on the offer this week are locals in Los Angeles; Miami, Okla.; Oaks, Pa., and Tuscaloosa, Ala.

"a distinct change in our policy."

U.S. officials insist that up to now all that is settled is that the United States has agreed in principle to sell a limited number of jets to Saudi Arabia and that a similar sale to Kuwait "is under active consideration." However, other sources say the deal is well enough fixed so that Saudi Arabia can expect to begin taking delivery of at least a squadron of the planes late this year.

Simcha Dinitz, the Israeli ambassador to Washington, carried his concern to Sisco on May 24 and May 29, and then to presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger last Saturday.

Other Israeli sources said they are not panicked by the arms deal and can understand U.S. desires to secure the Persian Gulf and to try to balance Soviet arms shipments to Arab opponents of Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Iran.

These sources say there is no basic contradiction between U.S. and Israeli positions on stability in the Gulf—only on whether providing the super-sonic F4 fighter-bombers is the appropriate means of obtaining that security.

The sources pointed out that jets in Saudi Arabian hands could strike Israel and return to their bases without refueling. Besides, the Israelis are not persuaded by the U.S. argument that clauses in the sales contracts would guard against transshipment to Egypt and other avid antagonists of Israel.

One Israeli official asked simply: "What would the United States do about it if the jets were transferred?"

Sisco, the assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern and South Asian affairs, will testify before a 13-member subcommittee headed by Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind.

LIBERIAN FREIGHTER'S SURVIVORS PICKED UP

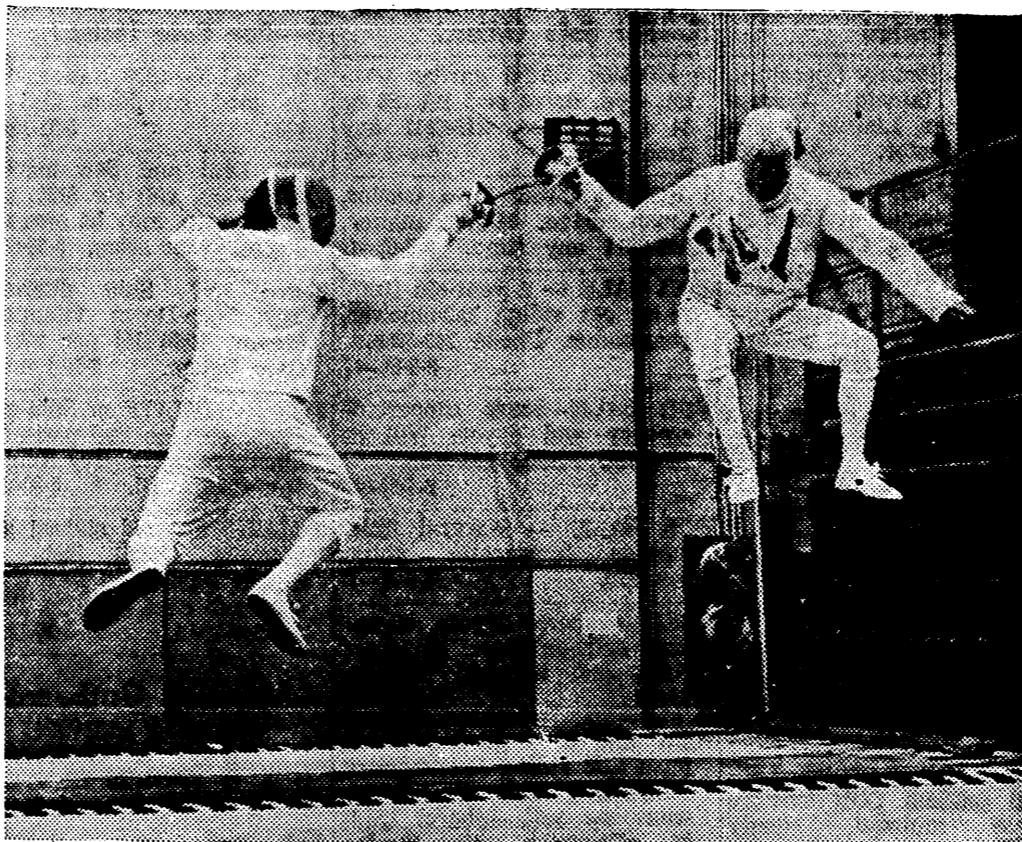

HONOLULU (UPI) — The nuclear aircraft carrier USS Enterprise picked up all survivors of a Liberian merchant freighter swept by fire in the Pacific Monday, the Navy said today.

A Navy spokesman said all survivors of the SS Saint Constantine had been picked up by the carrier's helicopters and were safely aboard the ship.

The 85,000-ton Enterprise was about 80 miles from the Constantine, which caught fire 580 miles southwest of Midway Island.

The freighter carried 33 men, but it was not known how many were picked up and taken to the Enterprise.

The University of San Marcos in Lima, Peru, founded in 1551, is the Western hemisphere's oldest.

LEAPINS, not standins, are these duellists on the "Theatre of Blood" set in London. They represent Vincent Price and Ian Hendry. The "Duel to the Death" scene took several tries because the duellists kept losing their balance on the trampoline.

Memory Is Great Healing Agent

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Memory is a great healing agent.

It is the balm that reconciles us to today's pains and the premised emptiness and loneliness of tomorrow.

By reminding us of good times we had in the past and the bad times we survived, memory can also by those examples give us hope that our future may still hold great times, too.

Your own store of memories is large enough to fill many an idle hour if you can look back and remember when —

Most of the things you bought cost you only about what the tax on them is now.

Many boys went hungry Saturdays because if they didn't sneak out of the house before breakfast their mothers would tell them they'd have to spend most of the day beating dust out of rugs hung up on a wire in the backyard.

You didn't have to worry about getting air-conditioners or television sets repaired, but somehow something always seemed to go wrong with the coal furnace or the hot water heater.

Doctors didn't charge much, and they were usually the last to get paid. The first thing a family paid every week was its grocery bill.

A young fellow who could strum a pretty fair mandolin usually didn't have much trouble getting dates.

Many a strict mother wouldn't let her daughter go out with a boy who drove a car that had a rumble seat.

While life had problems we don't face now, no man had to spend half the day in an office washroom because of a stuck zipper.

A juvenile delinquent was a kid who sat in the front row of the balcony at the movies, and threw beans at the audience below as soon as the lights were turned off.

A lot of folks thought you were throwing away your money if you sent your daughter away to college. The male theory was that a girl didn't need to go to college to learn how to raise children, and too much education served only to unbalance the female mind more than nature had done it already.

People gave less money to formal charity, but were more willing to pitch in and help an individual who was in trouble.

Those were the days — remember?

Grand Jury Probe Burglary Of Psychiatrist

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A county grand jury probing the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist heard testimony Tuesday from Ellsberg and 10 other witnesses. It awaited appearances later in the week by former presidential adviser John D. Ehrlichman and three Watergate conspirators.

Ehrlichman's Los Angeles attorney, Joseph Ball, said Ehrlichman will appear voluntarily before the grand jury on Friday. A district attorney spokesman said other former White House officials including former presidential counsel Charles Colson are expected to testify before the inquiry ends.

Dist. Atty. Joseph Busch, emerging from the grand jury room after a day of questioning witnesses in secret session, said he expects the hearings to be concluded by Friday and "then we'll be at a place where we can talk."

Busch has not said whether he will seek indictments.

Ellsberg, who was the first witness to testify, observed in a talk with reporters that those who have been named as the actual intruders at the psychiatrist's office have been given immunity from prosecution for their testimony. He said he thinks this indicates that authorities here are seeking information aimed at filing charges against "higher-ups" who planned the break-in.

Other witnesses included Ellsberg's psychiatrist and several Beverly Hills policemen who investigated the break-in.

Walker's 'Watergate' Draws New Criticism

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Vowing to get to the bottom of "this whole sordid mess," House Speaker W. Robert Blair ordered Wednesday a full-scale legislative investigation of the ouster of the chairman of the Illinois Liquor Control Commission while the panel was investigating an alleged illegal contribution to Gov. Daniel Walker's campaign fund.

With political storm signals flying, Blair also asked the Illinois Bureau of Investigation to guard all documents pertaining to the commission's study of the $50,000 donation allegedly made by Anthony Angelos, a Chicago businessman.

At a news conference, Blair said it was "time for the governor to come home from Nevada and put his own house in order."

Walker is due back in Springfield Thursday from the national Governors Conference. "It is incomprehensible to me," Blair said, "that Governor Walker would issue pious statements about the Watergate affair and its tragic effects on voter attitudes toward politicians like himself, when he has his own Watergate flooding Springfield."

Newsman gathered in Blair's Statehouse office and questioned him by amplified telephone from his hospital bed. He is in traction with what physicians describe as a possible ruptured disc in his neck.

Blair, a Park Forest Republican, announced the appointment of Rep. Philip Collins, R-Calumet City, to lead a House executive subcommittee with full subpoena power to investigate "this travesty of justice."

Collins named to the subcommittee Republican Reps. George (Ray) Hudson of Hinsdale and Mary Lou Kent of Quincy. Both are party loyalists and can be expected to follow the lead of Collins. The first hearing was set for 10 a.m. Monday.

Among those who will be called as witnesses, Collins said, is Lawrence E. Johnson, whose nomination as commission chairman Walker withdrew Monday, three days after Johnson disclosed in a television interview that he had set a June 29 hearing on the Angelos case.

Walker nominated Angelos for director of insurance but Angelos withdrew after reports were published that he held an interest in two firms with liquor licenses and had contributed $50,000 to the governor's campaign fund. Such a donation by a liquor licensee is a misdemeanor under Illinois law.

Collins said that Walker and his two top aides, Victor De Grazia and William I. Goldberg, might be "invited" to testify.

"I should think the governor would want to clear the air," Collins said.

In a news conference, Johnson, a former Campaign County state's attorney, said Tuesday Goldberg asked him at noon Monday to submit his resignation. He refused and the governor's office withdrew his nomination.

Johnson said that DeGrazia who was Walker's campaign manager, telephoned him Monday night. He refused, however, to discuss the content of the conversation, adding that he would tell the story of the Angelos probe and his ouster at a news conference at 10 a.m. Thursday.

The former Democratic candidate for Congress in the 21st district said he would like to talk with the governor before making a further statement. He said the move to oust him may not have been Walker's decision.

Walker's office was silent on whether there would be a meeting between the governor and Johnson.

"The word is that there is no word," Mark Clark, an assistant press secretary, said. "That doesn't mean that there will be no meeting."

Johnson also refused to answer a question on whether he had been asked to "ease up on" or halt the Angelos investigation.

"Wait until Thursday," he said. Michael Berz, acting chairman of the Liquor Commission, said in a statement issued late Tuesday that all scheduled hearings would be held.

Both Johnson and Blair dismissed as unbelievable a statement from the Walker administration issued Tuesday that Johnson was ousted because he refused to cooperate on the cutting of $250,000 from the commission budget.

"Whatever the reason was," Johnson said, "it was not the budget question."

The statement was issued by Andrew Leahy, Walker's liaison to state agencies and commissions.

TEACHER CONTRACT POSITIONS SAME

Members of School District 117's board of education and Jacksonville Education Association representatives met last night, but no progress was reported in contract negotiations for district teachers.

School Superintendent Clifford Crane stated, "The parties reviewed their positions and they remained unchanged." He reported that the JEA requested a meeting with the entire board of education "to review proposals and rationale." He said the meeting would be arranged by board president Jack Fairfield and JEA president Cecil Newberry.

Present for the meeting were board members Don Colclasure and Cecil Fransee (Russell Morris was ill); JEA negotiators Don English, Newberry, Bob Thomas, Jim O'Brien and Warren Owens; administrators Crone, Fred Osburn and Cecil Ford; and principals Oliver Buck, Charles Tavender and Bob Adams.

Thomas stated that his group feels 155 teachers will not get pay increases if the board proposal is accepted. He also said the district will be saving some money because 11 high-paid teachers are retiring, "and they will probably be replaced with people who are just beginning."

Bill Lowering Drinking Age Goes To Governor

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—A bill to authorize 19-year-olds to drink wine and beer was passed by the Illinois Senate 32-13 Wednesday and sent to Gov. Daniel Walker.

Arguments that the state should expand youth privileges under law beyond military service and voting prevailed over opposing contentions that Michigan was considering repeal of a similar law because of the rising tide of traffic accidents and deaths for drinking youths.

If Walker signs the bill, it will be effective Oct. 1 this year.

Judging by senators' citation of heavy mail for and against the legislation, Walker is likely to be deluged with petitions to sign and to veto.

Walker has said he favors allowing youths to drink beer but his office said he had not voiced his viewpoint on the compromise measure that passed.

When it was introduced into the House by Rep. Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie, the bill would have allowed 18-year-olds to drink alcoholic beverages.

Sen. Bradley Glass, R-Northfield, the Senate sponsor, said the age was raised to 19 because the objection had been that 18-year-olds were still in high school, and it would be a bad example for their classmates to see seniors drinking.

"This represents a natural step in giving youths their full rights and responsibilities," Glass said. "They are old enough to vote and to serve in the armed forces. There is little justification for discriminating against them in these other areas."

"Iowa, Wisconsin and Kentucky have had this law for 18-year-olds without serious incident," Glass said.

But opposing senators cited experience in Ontario, Canada, and in Michigan as unfavorable.

"It's a slaughter pen up there," Sen. Hudson said, R-Peoria, said, confirming a report that the Michigan Senate has adopted a pending measure for repeal of 18-year-old drinking privileges. "There was a complete reversal in a short time. The highways are an area of carnage for drunk drivers."

"Once we give the right to 19-year-olds to booze it up," Sours added. "That's exactly what a large number will do."

Sen. Howard Mohr, Forest Park Republican who is liquor commissioner and mayor governing 60 liquor licensees, said "there is no way this can be policed and enforced" because of the difficulty of determining the age of a drinker and whether he is consuming whisky and other hard liquors.

"It's a fat cat bill," Mohr said, aimed for the benefit of the liquor industry and to the detriment of youth. "They'll get it soon enough."

Glass told Mohr and others that "beer and wine are alcohol but they do not cause intoxication as readily."

The Senate also sent to the House three bills to reform the delivery of service to the aged.

A bill by Sen. Ester Sapersstein, D-Chicago, was passed 50-0 to the House to create a Department of Aging. Another by Sen. Don A. Moore, R-Midlothian, was passed 52-0 to the House to create a special agency under the governor's office to provide services for the aged.

Similar measures passed from the House to the Senate last week.

The third bill, although not specifically emphasizing services to the elderly, would embrace the functions intended by the other two bills.

That measure for massive reorganization of health and welfare services into one department, appeared to be headed for trouble in the House and for eventual veto by Walker if it clears the General Assembly.

That bill, sponsored by Sen. Jack Knueper, R-Elmhurst, managed to pass 32-7 only after President William C. Harris, the Republican majority leader, threw his weight behind it. Harris said the legislation was needed to befriend citizens who are shuttled from department to department without satisfaction of their health and welfare needs.

The House, which also met Wednesday, rejected measures to fully fund the pension fund for state employees, to require that small claims divisions be set up in each circuit court and to reconsider the vote by which a medical examiner system bill was defeated.

The state employees pension system bill would have called for a $10.25 million appropriation which sponsor Rep. Fred Schraeder, D-Peoria, said would "fully fund" the system.

It failed to receive the 69 votes it needed for passage 67-24.

The House last week passed a bill to fully fund the Downstate Teachers' Retirement System in a partisan power display by Republicans.

"We made our point with that bill," Majority Leader William Walsh, R-La Grange Park, said in explaining why Republicans did not vote as a bloc for the Schraeder bill.

Sources in the governor's office said Gov. Daniel Walker did not include provisions for full funding of either pension system in his 1974 budget.

Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park, a minority whip who has spoken on behalf of Walker on the House floor before, said the governor did not include full funding for the state employees' retirement system in his budget.

"If we pass this bill it will unbalance the budget, it will leave us short of sufficient funds for education and will deprive us of the funds we need to provide some tax relief," Pierce said.

The bill to set up small claims divisions in circuit courts throughout the state was also sponsored by Katz and failed 77-20 with one lawmaker voting present.

It would have allowed citizens to come before the court without a lawyer to attempt to collect debts which they are owed but which are not large enough to bother with securing a lawyer.

The House voted 72-34 to reconsider the vote on a bill creating a state medical examiner system to replace the county coroner.

The motion failed, however because 89 votes are needed to reconsider any vote.

Court Hears Three Pleas

Judge Gordon D. Seator Wednesday morning heard three pleas in cases pending.

John W. Weiss, 22, of 319 N. Diamond entered a plea of innocent to a charge of unlawful possession of cannabis and asked for a jury trial. Judge Seator set the jury trial for July 17. Weiss was indicted by grand jury recently to an offense which took place Mar. 24.

Yvonne Gilliland, 21, of Lincoln, formerly of Jacksonville entered a negotiated plea of guilty to a charge which was reduced by the state. She was originally charged with theft over $150 and the charge was reduced to less than $150. She also entered a motion for probation. A probation hearing will be held June 29.

Stephen K. Williams of Waverly entered a plea of guilty to a charge of violation of classification on his driver's license and was ordered to pay a fine of $25 and $10 costs.

An Awakening Laity Observed By Church

The movement of God is observed in an awakened laity of the church, The Rev. Dr. Eugene Moore, Mattoon, dean of the bishop's cabinet, said in a report of the eight district superintendents to Central Illinois Conference United Methodists in annual session in Jacksonville.

Dr. Moore called for "integrity in personal living," referring to Watergate as an "example of how we separate our worship from our everyday life."

"Never in the history of our nation," he said, "have so many worship services been held in the White House. At the same time, never has corruption existed in the everyday political affairs of the White House."

Evidence of an enlivened laity, said Dr. Moore, exists in scores of congregations across the state. He listed cities where in congregations "are seeking to make known God's love and our concern to all persons," including Springfield, Champaign and Urbana, Moline, Peoria, Clinton, Decatur, and in a number of rural parishes as well.

"Spiritual Renewal" according to the spokesman, "cannot be achieved if it is severed from our political life, our investment policies, our needed prison reforms, and our industrial-military complexes. The discipline to which we need to be called as church members is not that which places its trust in materialistic success, nor status in church, society or business. We must be called to a servanthood role in the world."

Bishop F. Gerald Ensley, of the Ohio West Area and worship leader of the conference said "the church is looking for its Churchhill today" as he urged the 1,000 delegates to remember the heroism of the British people and the leadership of the war-time prime minister in overcoming present disasters for the future victory.

Saying that the church and the world cannot survive "by repeating old war cries," Bishop Ensley suggested that religion and the church "has dealt too long with the long ago and the far away."

He noted that Pilate, Judas, and Peter were afflicted with the curse of being relevant during the last days of Jesus, adding that most Americans today "are living with a thousand purposes contradicting themselves."

Robert Lemuel Ray of Decatur was pronounced dead on arrival at Passavant hospital where he had been rushed from Norris House on the MacMurray College campus.

Mr. Ray, 57, had been attending the five-day United Methodist Central Illinois Annual Conference being held at the local college.

He was a layman of the Trueblood Memorial church in Decatur.

An autopsy has been ordered by Morgan county Coroner Don Lowe, with an inquest pending.

The body was taken to Gillham-Buchanan Funeral Home and will be transported to the Moran Funeral Home in Decatur.

Landfill Discussed By Franklin Board

By RALPH W. NOE
FRANKLIN — The Franklin Village Board met Tuesday night and discussed a variety of issues.

The board discussed the proposed county landfill. Discussion was centered around the costs to join. A tentative figure of $1800 per year was given by Jacksonville as the annual cost to Franklin for the use of the landfill.

The village at the present time has Jack Hardin, an Auburn hauler, dispose of the garbage at no cost to the village and a fee of $3 per residence.

To join the proposed county landfill, cost to residents would still be in the neighborhood of $3 monthly, plus the base of $1800 to the village. The board tabled the issue for further consideration.

Water Supply System
The board discussed progress made on a new water supply system. Thus far, five sites have been found for a possible water system. The board will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. with Dick Rawlings of Benton and Associates and Norman Torrains of the Farmers Home Administration to discuss methods of financing and engineering. The board is in the process of researching possible federal grants for part of the cost.

Franklin presently gets water from the Waverly system. The expansion of both towns has created increasingly greater demands on the Waverly system. Officials of the towns disagree on the amount of water that is sold to Franklin. Franklin officials say the cost is higher and they have trouble getting any increases of water from Waverly.

Committees
Board president Ed Fairless drew up committees for the coming year. They are:

Finances: Arthur Bettis, Charles Summers, Howard Boyer; personnel: Joe Austif, Summer.

Taking A Vote On 1976

☐ Keep Obverse

☐ Keep Reverse

☐ New Obverse

☐ New Reverse

Shall we have six new coin designs to celebrate our 200th anniversary in 1976; should we have just two coin reverses devoted to the occasion, or should we simply ignore our birthday completely and leave our coins just as they are? This is a question that must be answered soon if any changes are to be made in so much as a single side of one coin.

The question has been under heated debate for several days and the pros and cons are just as far apart now as they have ever been and the situation is beginning to involve some rather important congressional personalities. Some, of course, are against anything over and above the token commemoration suggested for the reverse of the Kennedy half-dollar and Eisenhower dollar. Others seem to favor a total conversion of a six coin design to a bicentennial motif.

The celebration date is two and one-half years away, but the decision as to whether we will or will not have: 1) Six new circulating coins, 2) One commemorative silver dollar or half-dollar, and 3) One gold commemorative coin of a denomination to be determined, must be made within the next few weeks.

We have prepared a ballot showing all six of our present coins with space provided to show the reader's choice with room for suggestions pertaining to suggested subject matter. These ballots will be turned over to the House Banking and Currency Committee chaired by Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.) and the subcommittee on consumer affairs, presided over by

Weeder's Guide

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of three columns about a tour of Israel.

From the window of the home of my daughter, Rhoda, in Herzliya Petuah, Israel, many bright yellow desert wildflowers can be seen on the sand dunes facing the shining Mediterranean. Wherever we went there were the same yellow blooms, which Israel asks travelers not to destroy.

Flowers bloom profusely in the often mild, sometimes hot, often dry, occasionally rainy climate of Israel. In Rhoda's garden, growing side-by-side, were poinsettia reaching to the roof of the one story house, and geranium seven feet tall. It was April and both were in blossom.

Of course good soil must be tilled in to give plants a more even chance of survival and watering is regular — except when the dry season forces a ban. A neighbor across the road spread more than 30 truckloads of soil. Now they are raising marigolds and other annuals they remembered from their former home in Chicago.

We travelled the breadth and much of the length of Israel, from the fertile but unfriendly Golan Heights to the Dead Sea, the port of Haifa to Galilee and the rock-top castle of King Herod at Masada. Much of the land is dry, rocky and desolate but the so-called fertile crescent stretching north and east from Tel Aviv is lush in many areas.

The cooler Golan has fine apples, one of the few areas that grows them, and oranges. A beautiful resting place was the Dan National Forest. Through the woods runs the river Dan, a tributary to the river Jordan. The stream rushed through rapids near the campsite. The beautiful park cools the visitors who are well-rewarded by an easy climb through oak-screened paths past an ancient grist mill.

We spent a night at a kibbutz, Hagoshrim, one of the larger, more attractive communal settlements. There, in the Upper Galilee, an apple packing plant is a major industry. Shortly after dawn we were abruptly awakened by the sound of an airplane swooping again and again toward our lodge. It was alarming, being so close to the Syrian border from which the shells rained down not long ago, but we determined it was a crop-duster. They begin work early in Israel and siestas from 1-4 p.m. are routine.

We stopped for refreshing orange juice at another kibbutz, Givat Brenner, about 30 miles from Tel Aviv, founded in 1928 by a handful of Eastern Europeans. Trucks were lined up at the cannery unloading citrus for packing. Now nearly 30 countries are represented in the population of 1,700.

The delightful scent of oranges pervades the atmosphere almost everywhere at harvest time. We were told that every bit of the orange is used — for fresh fruit, frozen juice concentrate, alcohol, vinegar, marmalade, fertilizer and, in limited amounts, for cattle fodder.

The famed Weitzman Institute in Rehovot, outside Tel Aviv, abounds with gardens. There are olive, pine, cypress, eucalyptus, fragrant mimosa and red-flowered poinciana trees, among many.

A common sight was groves of carob, the ancient St. John's bread trees. Wheat fields alternate with olive groves and vineyards dotted with burned out military tanks and trucks, rusting monuments to the fighting against Arab neighbors.

The vast evergreen forests, especially between ancient Jerusalem and comparatively new Tel Aviv, are one of the most amazing sights. More than 4½ million Canadian pines have been planted annually, a present means of discouraging erosion and a future treasure in lumber. Many were gifts of organizations and individuals all over the world.

We passed the Truman Forest, a tribute to the first head of a nation to recognize the new Israel's independence. Four million pines, for men and women, grow in one memorial forest, intermingled with two million cypress, rising taller, with candle-like effect to honor massacred European children — growing along the Road of Courage.

PLEASANT PLAINS GIRL WINNER OF COOP CONTEST

Of the two high school students named winners in the Menard Electric Coop annual Youth to Washington essay contest, one is from Pleasant Plains, Donna Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oramel D. Stevens, and a junior at the Pleasant Plains High School. The other is a Riverton youth, Greg Richardson.

These two will join about 50 other coop winners from Illinois June 9th at Springfield for the trip, returning by June 16th.

Cass Zoning Commission Now Operating

BEARDSTOWN — The county board has created the Cass County Zoning Commission to implement a County Land Use program, now being considered by the Cass County Regional Planning Commission.

It will be the duty of the Zoning Commission to draw up an appropriate zoning ordinance to be submitted to the county board in the near future.

The Zoning Commission includes Robert Patterson, Robert Carlton and Lorenz Kleinschmidt of Beardstown; James Fox, Russell Meredith, and H. Gus Carls of Virginia; Glenn Hillen of Ashland and Eldon Herrmann of Chandlerville.

The first job of the Commission will be to prepare a tentative report and proposed zoning ordinance for Cass county with the assistance of the county's planning consultants.

Members of the Zoning Commission will be paid $10 per diem and 10 cents per mile for travel. Chairman Bob Patterson, of the county board, said at the last meeting of the board that the Planning Consultants had recommended naming members of the Regional Planning Commission to the County Zoning Commission since they are familiar with the proposals.

The Commission will hold hearings in each township on the Zoning plan, and will make adequate announcements on the time and places for the meetings.

Communist Regimes Move To Halt Decline In Births

By ROLAND PRINZ
Associated Press Writer
VIENNA Austria (AP) — While many nations are trying to deal with the population explosion, Communist regimes in Eastern Europe have moved to halt a sharp decline in births.

The result has been burgeoning maternity benefits and a drastic reversal from extremely liberal abortion policies to tight controls making it difficult for most women to legally terminate pregnancies.

Governments in Eastern Europe have been urging families to have more children, with the minimum goal often said to be two or three in each family.

Until recently women in Hungary, Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia had been given tacit government approval to have abortions. Last year for example 178,400 abortions were unofficially reported in Bulgaria in a population of about eight million.

At the same time the birth rate in those two countries was 14.5 and 15.5 per 1,000 population.

The most recent statistics available at the United Nations on the birth rate in India, one of the highest in the world, show a rate there of 42.8 per 1,000 population.

But Hungary and Bulgaria have now announced stiff penalties for most abortions and the Czechoslovak government has begun to enforce antiabortion directives given a year ago.

The Bulgarian government's concern was shown in December when its Health Ministry said one of its chief goals was to "create social, economic and psychological conditions favoring the gradual raising and stabilization of the birth rate."

Other countries in Eastern Europe have expressed similar thoughts.

Along with tighter restrictions on abortions and, in some countries, restrictions on birth control devices, most of the Eastern European governments have substantially increased their maternity benefits, hoping to urge more women to have children.

In Bulgaria, for example, full-paid maternity leave ranges from four to six months and partial leave from six to eight months, depending on the number of children the woman has had.

Most of the countries have looked toward Romania as an example of how the birth rate problem can be reversed.

Sweeping liberalization of abortion laws in 1957 sent the Romanian birth rate tumbling down from an average 25.5 per 1,000 population to 14.6 in 10 years.

In 1967 abortions were banned for all women except mothers already having four children, rape victims and women over 45 years of age. At the same time birth control pills were neither produced nor imported after 1967.

Within three years, according to the World Health Organization, Romania had the highest birth rate in Europe — a so-called population surplus of 115 compared to a range of 43 to 96 in other Eastern European countries.

EXTENSION UNIT ORGANIZED IN PIKE

PITTSFIELD — A new Pike Extension unit, home economics, was organized May 23 at the home of Mrs. Ronald Moore, Baylis. Officers elected were chairman, Mrs. Joyce Smith; first vice chairman, Mrs. Donna Moore; secretary-treasurer and second vice president, Mrs. Janie Stauffer; 4-H chairman, Mrs. Peggy Martin; and public information, Mrs. Dreldine Balingier.

Mrs. William Christison and Miss Helen Hackman met with the group to help organize the unit.

Celluloid, invented in 1869 by John W. Hyatt, a printer of Albany, N.Y., was the first synthetic plastic.

CHAMPION HITCHHIKER Devon Smith, 47, who has traveled 300,000 miles that way in the past quarter of a century, thumbs for another ride on a Kansas City, Kan., stopover. The Pennsylvanian is asking for letters of recommendation from public officials as a means of goodwill touring China.

Russia, China Quietly Expand Military Aid To African Nations

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia and Communist China are quietly expanding military aid to African countries as they maneuver for influence and support there, according to U.S. intelligence sources.

Overshadowed by crises elsewhere, the sometimes competing Soviet and Chinese moves in Africa are logged by U.S. intelligence officials who consider them important in the global power balance.

The U.S. arms aid program in Africa is strictly limited by Congress, with Ethiopia and Tunisia sharing the total $1.3 million in grants proposed for the new fiscal year starting next month.

A series of U.S. intelligence reports traces a pattern of Communist Chinese and Soviet aid initiatives in at least eight African countries.

According to one recent report, Red China is preparing to provide Tanzania with its first jet fighter planes, a squadron of 20 MIG 19s AND MIG 17s, by late this year.

Peking sent the Sudan six MIG 19s last year when the Communist Chinese were trying to capitalize on the Sudan's alienation from Russia. China also started about $42 million in economic aid projects there.

Since then the Sudanese leaders, who blamed the Russians for allegedly helping in a coup attempt against them, have made up with Moscow and the Russians are building a logistical complex in the Sudan, among other things.

Meanwhile, the Chinese appear to be moving in on Guinea which has relied on a Soviet naval squadron to protect it for nearly two years. Within the past two months, China delivered four fast Shanghai-class gunboats for Guinea's coastal defense. A 40-man Chinese training group accompanied some of the boats, becoming the first Chinese military presence in that West African country.

Nearby, in Portuguese Guinea, the Russians are estimated by U.S. intelligence to have provided more than 5,000 tons of weapons and ammunition to anti-Portuguese rebels in the past year.

On Africa's east coast, the Russians landed about 25 T54 and T55 medium tanks in Somalia this spring. Somalia is strategically located along the Indian Ocean and the Gulf of Aden, and has been a focus of Russian attention for at least a decade.

LOOKING DOWN one's nose is no mean trick for a pelican. These big-beaked birds are in a London Park.

Apt Ideas

By JIM HUFNAGEL
Written for Associated Press
Even if your apartment garden measures no more than six inches in diameter and consists of only one plant, you are still in touch with Mother Earth. Here are some ideas to help you add that touch of living green to your apartment.

Many plants do very well under apartment conditions, but because flowering kinds need strong light they will not do as well as green plants. Plants need air, light, water and food. All but the food are free, and that might cost you as much as 39 cents for a two-year supply.

Light: Set your plants where they get good, bright sun for as much of the day as possible, remembering to open the draperies every morning.

Water: A plant in a small pot may need watering two or three times a week; a large one only once. Plants in glazed pots need watering less often than those in clay, porous types. Allow the surface of the soil to dry before rewatering. If you plan to be gone for a week or more, water the plant, set it out of the bright light, and drop a plastic bag over it. It should be happy for up to two weeks. For a larger plant, just wrap a thin plastic painter's drop cloth over and around it.

Food: Plants should be fed once a month during the bright days from April through November. Use a soluble or liquid food, and water it in well. Wipe the leaves with a damp cloth every month or so to improve the plant's appearance and general health.

Pests: A systemic insecticide added to the soil will rid your plant of most bugs.

Artificial light: You might decide to go all out and set up a growing area under lights.

Corrected fluorescent tubes provide an effective imitation of sunlight.

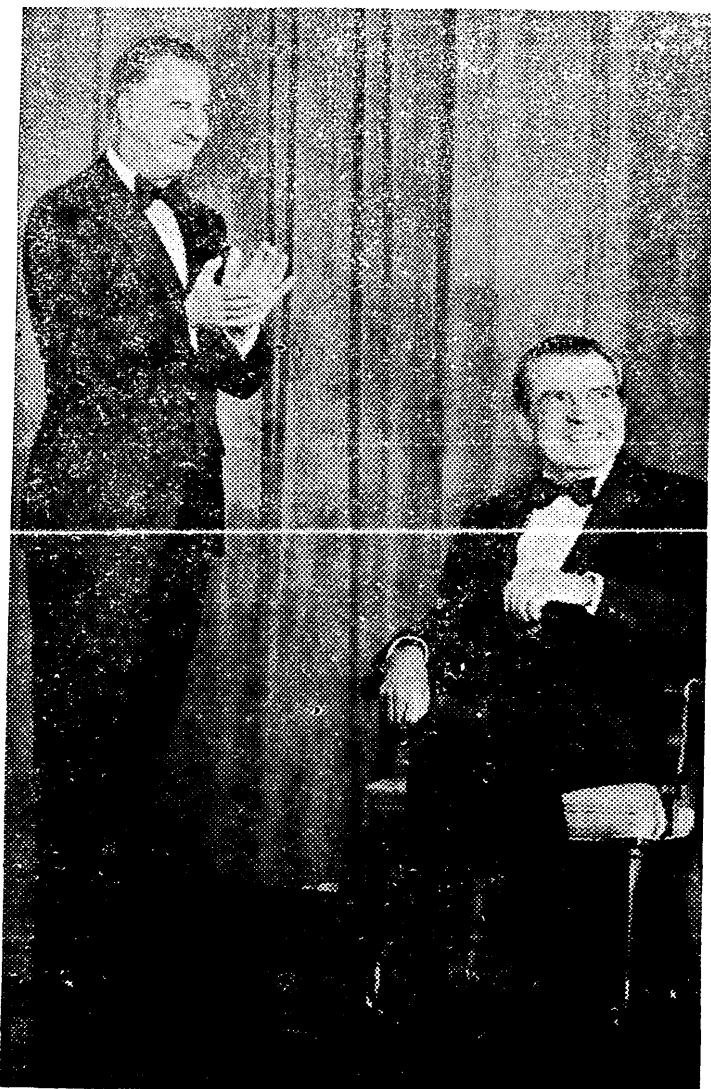

Now to the choice of plants. If you're forgetful, adopt a plant from the sansevieria tribe, which seems to thrive on abuse. The only way to kill one is to overwater it. Flowerlike bracts of bromeliads have a colorful topknot which lasts for months. They are easy to grow if you keep the little "vases" formed by the bases of the leaves filled with water and irrigate the soil every two weeks. Or try dracena, which provide year-round color from leaves that are striped, mottled or splotted with yellow, chartreuse or ivory. These semi-indestructible plants get by with only minimal attention.

Some other larger plants that grow quite well with a little attention are fatshedera, dieffenbachia, philodendron, figs, palms, begonia, Norfolk Island pine, podocarpus, rubber plant and schefflera. Or if your space is more limited, try such small plants as aphelandra, cactus, fern, ivy, peperomia, succulents and syngonium.

LESS GLARE THERE

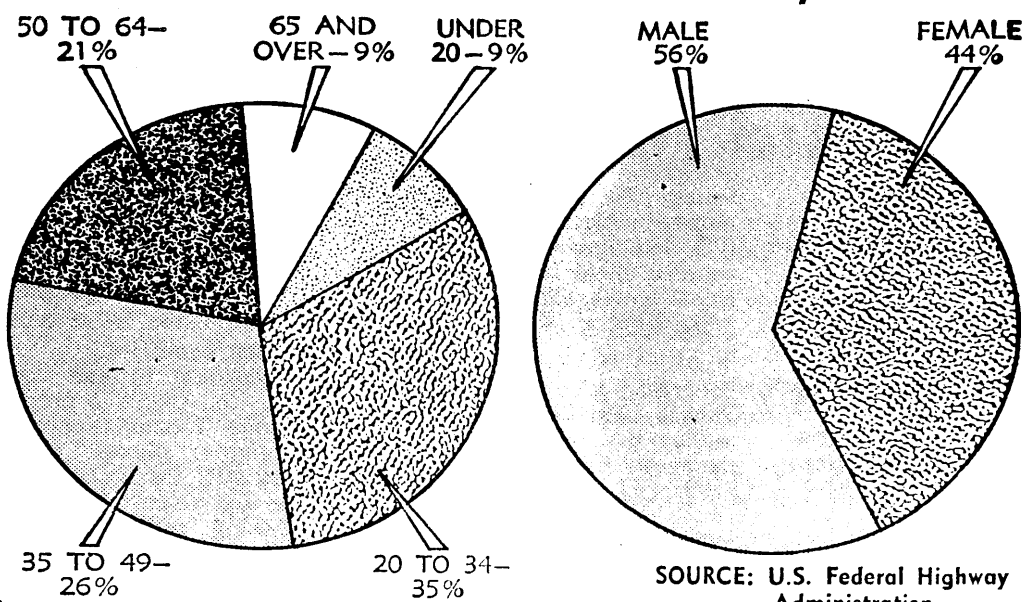

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bothered by glare from the headlights of oncoming automobiles when driving? It's becoming less of a problem every day, according to Donald S. Knight, director of the Road Information Program.

Road builders are planting 70,000 trees and 140,600 seedlings annually on interstate highways to provide visual separation, Knight says. Over the past seven years, more than 500,000 trees and one million seedlings have been planted.

NO. 2 APPLAUDS and No. 1 seems happy at this Republican fund raising affair in Washington.

AGE AND SEX OF U.S. DRIVERS, 1972

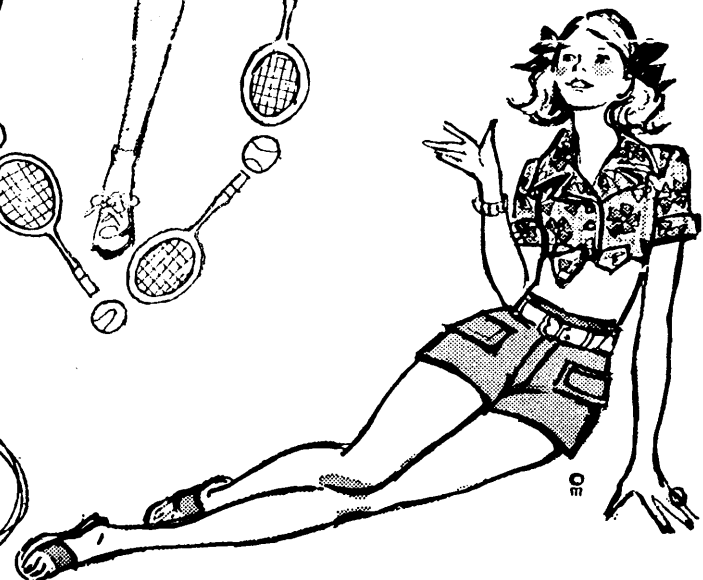

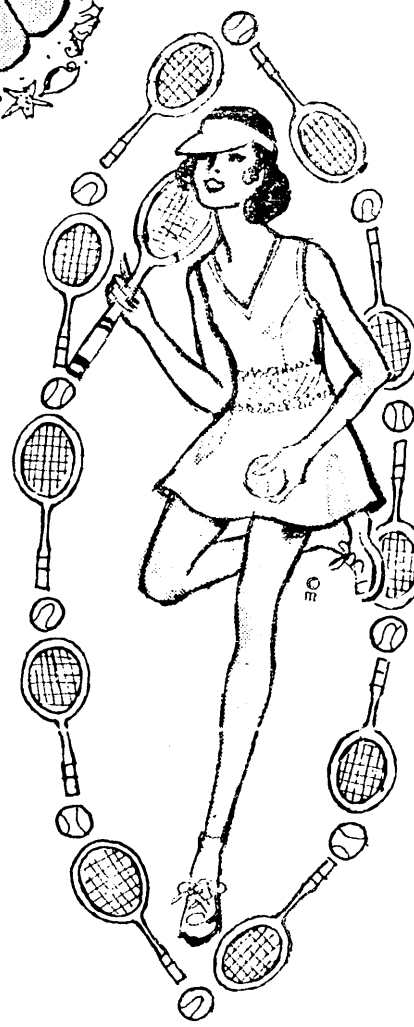

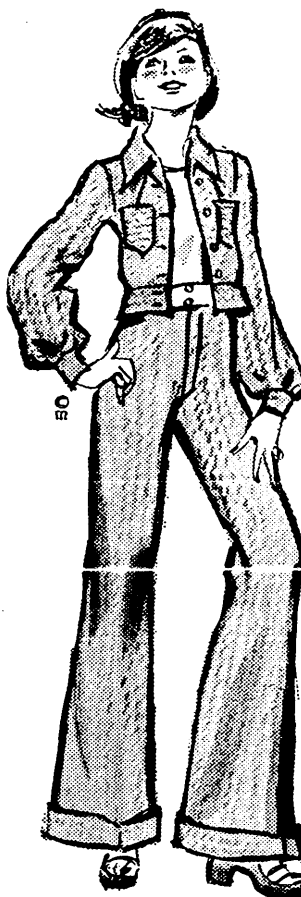

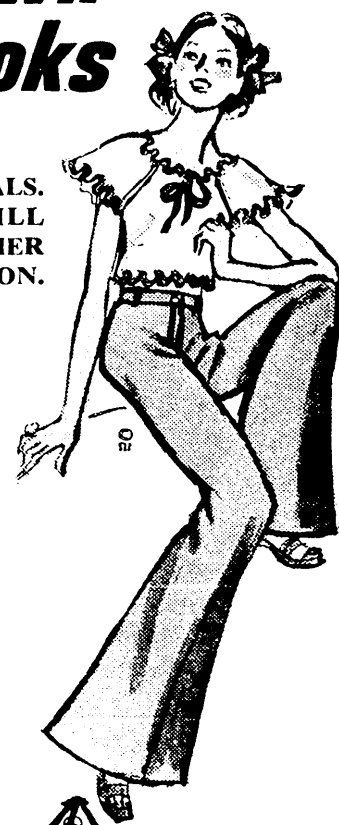

SOURCE: U.S. Federal Highway Administration

Men drivers outnumber women drivers by 12 per cent, according to Federal Highway Administration data. Most drivers of both sexes are found in the 20-34 and 35-49 age groups.

Roodhouse Couple Hosts Franklin Car Club

By MABEL HOPKINS

ROODHOUSE — Twenty persons gathered at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Rawlins, east of Roodhouse, May 20 for the Spring meeting of the Franklin Car club.

The group gathered at the Rawlins home the preceding Saturday afternoon and Mrs. Rawlins took the ladies to tour the local area, both Roodhouse and White Hall. Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Rawlins hosted the group at the Blackhawk in Jacksonville. The evening was spent at the Rawlins home with Mr. Rawlins showing slides of previous meets, Nauvoo, Roodhouse Centennial, and the car show pictures taken at Mt. Pleasant, Iowa.

Sunday morning all went to the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Funk at Manchester to view his collection of antique cars. He displayed ten of his cars. He accompanied the group back to the Rawlins home for a picnic dinner and day with the others.

Clubs Throughout U.S.

Mr. Rawlins explains there are members of the Franklin Car club in 48 states and 10 foreign countries. Members meet three times each year. The next meeting will be this summer in Joliet, the date and place to be announced.

Mr. Rawlins is a retired farmer. He and Mrs. Rawlins live on a farm east of Roodhouse. As owner of Illinois Centennial Farm he has the original sheepskin grant, signed by President Andrew Jackson for the properties. His hobby consists of antique cars. He is a charter member of the Jacksonville Antique Car Club. He and his wife are also members of the Camera Club of Jacksonville.

Qualifies

Gene, as he is more familiarly known, began collecting cars with a 1913 Ford in 1953. Since then he has acquired five more, one of which is a Franklin of 1926 vintage which qualifies him to be a member of the Franklin Car Club.

The couple's daughters, Mrs. Charley Buhlig and Mrs. Bob Lane, both make their home in Roodhouse. There are three grandsons.

Mrs. Rawlins is a retired school teacher. She began teaching in a Kansas country school and has taught 45 years. She has done departmental work; Glee club work with children and presented a Cantata with them each year; taught music in Arizona where she was also audio-visual co-ordinator; helped write a science program for Phoenix; and taught fifth grade in Lafayette School at Jacksonville, finishing her career as a grade teacher in the North Greene Unit in Roodhouse.

Her hobbies are music, and she plays some instruments for personal enjoyment. She is interested in photography, is a rock hound, and has finished several antique pieces. Both are members of the Roodhouse Christian Church, where he serves as elder.

From Large Area

The barn had been furnished for the picnic and proved a great attraction to all present. Attending the car meet were Lee Nelson, a geographer, and Mrs. Louise Nelson, teacher, and their son, Roy, a teacher at Lockport.

Miss Nancy Newkirk, art teacher, Joliet; Paul L., builder, and wife; Mary Ellen Halveson, Creston; David Doman, engineer, Ann Arbor, Mich.

John Hasslen, manufacturer, St. Paul, Minn.; Henry H. Gray, geologist, and Alice Gray, geologist, Bloomington, Ind.; Harold Overdeck, electronics, Hopkins, Minn.; John E. Tschopp, metallurgist, and Maxine E. Tschopp, Barrington.

Milton Smazik, safety and personnel, and Laverne Smazik, and their son, Mark, a student, Brookfield; Dwight Carter, salesman, and June Carter and their son of Des Moines, Iowa; and Emory Funk, farmer from Manchester.

ROBIN MANKER RECEIVING DEGREE

OXFORD, Ohio — Miami University lists 2,153 candidates for degrees at its 134th annual commencement June 10 in Millett Hall on Miami's Oxford Campus. Included on the list is Robin Claire Manker, 14 Winthrop Trail, Jacksonville, who will receive the Master of Arts degree.

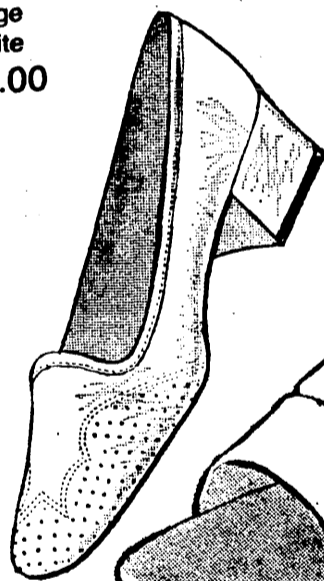

Wide V neckline (left) and Juliet midriff creates figure flattery. An elegant look in or out of the bedroom. Wraparound sash ends in a soft bow underneath a deeply scooped portrait neckline for a very feminine, very young look (right). Both designs are from a new Junior Collection by John Kloss for Cira and fashioned in Caprolan nylon tricot for easy care.
